Arabs Nix U.S. Plan For Peace In Middle East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egypt, other Arab governments and the Palestinian guerrilla leadership rejected the latest U.S. proposals for a Middle East settlement even before they were officially outlined Tuesday night by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.
Details of the American plan and reaction to it have been appearing in the Arab press for days. The proposal calls for Israeli withdrawal from conquered Egyptian territory and a binding commitment by Israel and Egypt to end hostilities. Agreement between Egypt and Israel would open the way to negotiations between Israel and Jordan and Syria.

Link Cult To 2 More Murders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bearded, long-haired and wearing fringe-trimmed buckskin clothing, Charles M. Manson appeared bewildered as he arrived in Los Angeles to be jailed on murder-conspiracy charges in the deaths of actress Sharon Tate and six others.
The 35-year-old leader of a communal clan he calls "the family" was brought here Tuesday night in a five-hour, 300-mile automobile trip from remote Inyo County, where he had been held on charges of arson and receiving stolen property.
Three women indicted with him Monday by the Los Angeles County Grand Jury were ordered to Superior Court today for arraignment. They are Susan Denise Atkins, 21; Linda Kasabian, 20; and Leslie Sankstone, 19. Manson will be arraigned Thursday.
Meanwhile, Detective Lt. Karl Deemer told newsmen police were studying a "possible similarity" between knife-gunshot killings with which the cult members are charged and two other deaths.
Deemer referred to the slaying of Doreen Gaul, 19, and James Sharp, 15, whose bodies were found in a Los Angeles alley Nov. 4. Each had been stabbed 50 to 60 times and their eyes were slashed.
Miss Gaul and Sharp belonged to a cult called "The Process" and "The Final Church of Judgment."

South Viets Boost Strength Of Services

Factor Believed Behind Nixon Cutback Plans

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today that its armed forces have increased by about 88,000 men during the past six months, a factor presumably figuring in the third withdrawal of American troops President Nixon will announce later this month.
The government said its forces total about 1,090,000 men under arms, compared to about 1,002,000 six months ago.
A spokesman gave this approximate breakdown: army 374,000; navy 28,000; air force 32,000; marines 11,000; regional forces 252,000; popular forces 178,000; paramilitary forces including national police, civilian irregulars and revolutionary development (pacification) cadre, 215,000.
The figures showed a 6,000-man decrease in South Vietnam's regular army, but a spokesman said this was only a "fluctuation." Navy strength increased by 5,000, the air force was up 12,000, and the marines gained 2,000 men.
The biggest gains, however, were in the militia—the regional, popular and paramilitary forces. The regional forces increased 32,000, the popular forces 8,000 and paramilitary forces 35,000.
Militiamen of the regional and popular forces have been hit hard by recent enemy attacks, especially in the Mekong Delta. Regional force companies operate under the control of each

High-Speed Train Tests Are Readied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 250-mile-an-hour rapid transit vehicle with a revolutionary magnetic power plant—designed so it eventually will ride a cushion of air instead of wheels—begins trial runs next month.
The 58-foot-long surface carrier, created for 80 passengers but now filled with electronic test gear, was unveiled Tuesday by the U.S. Department of Transportation as a major step in its program to end smog and noise from future intercity vehicles.
Spokesmen said full scale operation of such vehicles would come sometime in the 1970s. The date, they said, depends on upcoming tests of the radically different propulsion system, based on a linear induction motor which uses electromagnetic forces to drive the 25-ton vehicle along a guiding rail.
Undersecretary of Transportation James M. Beggs said the motor, if successful, could "herald a new generation of faster, more efficient ground vehicles, particularly in our crowded urban corridors."
"As the development of rocket propulsion enabled men to break loose from earth's gravity, so the linear induction motor promises to enable us, on the ground, to be freed from dependence on the wheel," he added.
The prototype test vehicle, which resembles an airplane fuselage straddling a high, blade-like center rail, was displayed in a Federal Aviation Administration hangar at Los Angeles International Airport.
Next month it will be moved to a quarter-mile-long track in nearby Torrance for low-speed tests by the Garrett Corp., which built the vehicle for the federal transportation agency under a $3.2 million contract. Date and place of later high-speed tests have not been determined.

Many Crucial School Levies Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Several Ohio school districts will be forced to cutback services as a result of Tuesday's special school elections that saw many levies defeated for the second and third times.
Upper Arlington voters soundly rejected, 7,198-4,584 a 7.9-mill operating levy for the second time, forcing an indefinite delay in the opening of a new elementary school. Teachers in Upper Arlington also will lose a pay hike negotiated on the assumption the levy would pass. The same levy failed in November.
The Oak Hills School District, which said it would close for two months next winter for lack of funds, was again denied a 4.8 - mill levy by a 6,734-5,803 vote.
Canton voters may have forced the delay of school openings next year by defeating an 8.6-mill operating levy. The schools could open as late as Nov. 1. Canton School Supt. George Young said the levy might be resubmitted in May.
Warren teachers walked out to dramatize the financial plight of the school system after a 6.6-mill levy was defeated in November. The voters passed the levy Tuesday 7,754-6,056.
Three other Warren area school districts approved levies. Maplewood passed a 7-mill levy 350-325, a 4.5-mill Brookfield school levy passed 1,042-900 and a half-mill levy was approved in Liberty Township 991-694.
The New Carlisle-Bethel district in Clark County suffered a second defeat when its 10-mill levy was rejected 2,152 - 2,083.

No Evidence Shows Need, Ruling Says

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A Pennsylvania judge refused today to order the body of Mary Jo Kopechne exhumed for an autopsy.
It was a victory for the parents of the 28-year-old secretary who died last summer in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car.
Common Pleas Judge Bernard C. Brominski, after seven weeks of consideration, denied the petition of a Massachusetts district attorney who plans an inquest.
Brominski said the facts presented by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Maine, "are insufficient to support a finding of the cause of death" other than drowning.
In his 14-page opinion, the judge said that after two days of testimony it was difficult for him to conclude that Miss Kopechne's grave should be disturbed.
He said that if Dinis had any evidence that might prove the need for an autopsy "it has not been presented here."
The Massachusetts inquest has been delayed pending this ruling.
Brominski said he took into consideration the vigorous objection by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kopechne, Berkeley Heights, N. J.
"While their disapproval is not an absolute bar to an exhumation and autopsy," Brominski said, "in view of the facts presented to this court their objections are well taken."
Joseph F. Flanagan, the Kopechne attorney said he was "very happy with the decision."
"We feel the family's position has been fully vindicated and their feeling that there should be no autopsy was justified."
Miss Kopechne died on the night of July 18, when Kennedy drove his sedan off a narrow bridge and into a pond on Chappaquiddick Island, off the coast of Massachusetts near Martha's Vineyard.
An assistant medical examiner who made only an external examination ruled then the 28-year-old secretary had drowned. Three days after the accident she was buried in Larksville, not far from where she was born in northeastern Pennsylvania's hard coal region.
A petition for exhumation and autopsy was filed on Aug. 14 by

Boyle Claims Election Win

Mine Workers Elect President

W. A. BOYLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, invoking the spirit of the late John L. Lewis, claimed a smashing re-election victory today over Joseph A. Yablonski in the union's greatest internal battle in nearly half a century.
"The greatest man that ever defended labor in this country, John L. Lewis, my mentor, selected me; he didn't select and train my opponent in the responsibility of running this union," Boyle said in crediting his victory to the loyalty of the nation's coal miners to the memory of Lewis.
But Yablonski, a 27-year member of the 200,000-member union's executive board, refused to concede despite Boyle's report that he polled some 73,000 votes to 40,000 for his opponent.
"They can go to hell, I'm conceding to nobody. I'm conceding nothing," the 59-year-old Yablonski said in a telephone interview from his home in Clarksburg, Pa.
"I'm not believing everything they are giving out," Yablonski said of the voting returns compiled and reported from Mine Workers' Washington headquarters.
"Our big job now is to heal the wounds and to bridge the gap that has been created," said the 65-year-old Boyle in a pre-dawn statement claiming victory for a second five-year term in the $50,000 a year union presidency.
"I'm glad to hear he's going to be interested in healing something," snorted Yablonski, who had leveled charges of financial irregularities, nepotism, physical attacks, election campaign violations and numerous other complaints against Boyle in the bitter seven-month campaign.

Solons Ask Ban On Army Shipment Of Poison Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and Pentagon were asked today to bar the Army from shipping massive amounts of poison gas weapons through the Pacific Northwest.
Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., protested the Army plan, which could involve shipments totaling more than 700 railroad cars full of the gas from Bangor, Wash., to the Army Ordnance Depot at Umatilla, Ore.
Magnuson said today he has written Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird asking that the Army shipments be barred, "at least until more adequate safety precautions are taken."
Hatfield said he wrote President Nixon that the chemical weapons should be destroyed, not stockpiled.
Hatfield's letter cited Nixon's Nov. 25 renunciation of the use of chemical weapons unless an attacker employs them first. The President also asked the Senate to approve a 44-year-old treaty banning first use of chemical or biological warfare.
Hatfield said he wrote Nixon, "in effect, 'Here is a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate this policy.'"
The gas involved in the new shipment has been stockpiled on Okinawa, the Pacific island now destined to be returned to Japanese control in 1972.
The weapons—mustard gas and two types of nerve gas—were ordered removed nearly six months ago, after 24 American soldiers narrowly escaped injury or death from a leaky gas container.
Shipments will begin by January, with the weapons to be taken to Bangor, Wash., by ship, then transferred to railroad cars for the final 242-mile trip to Umatilla.
The budding controversy is reminiscent of earlier and successful efforts by East Coast congressmen to stop rail shipments of obsolete gas weapons from Colorado to New Jersey.
The Defense Department this fall had intended to dump the weapons in the Atlantic Ocean, but after strong complaints about safety, plans were revamped and the gas will be disposed of in Colorado.
"There will be from four to five shiploads, each ship containing a rail shipment consisting of approximately three trains, with each train containing about 50 cars," Magnuson said in a statement.
"I am asking the secretary of defense not to allow these shipments—the first due this month—until all doubts have been wiped away and we are certain that innocent persons along the route of travel have been given every protection," said Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.
Hatfield said the Army sent three chemical warfare experts to brief him on the planned shipment, but they did not shake his opposition.

Import Quota Amendments Delay Tax Reform Bill OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The touchy issue of import quotas on foreign products has been injected into the drawn-out Senate fight over tax reform, delaying final passage of the bill.
The quota fight erupted Tuesday, dimming the hopes of some Senate leaders for a speedy fix.
Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said afterwards that amendments were coming so fast he didn't know when the measure will pass.
Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., GOP floor manager for the bill, said, however, he feels the 12-day-old floor battle was almost over.
Passage sends the bill to House-Senate conference where the measure's sponsors expect a compromise will be hammered out to remove or modify some Senate riders and thus avert the veto pledged by President Nixon.
Last week the Senate broadened the tax reform bill to include a far-ranging new section increasing Social Security benefits and bringing on the veto threat.
Tuesday Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., sparked the delaying debate when he proposed the trade rider.
It would authorize the President to impose import quotas against a commodity being shipped into the U.S. if he found it was harming U.S. companies or workers and if the producing country was putting restrictions on U.S. exports.
The amendment is strongly opposed by the Nixon administration. Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans urged its defeat in a letter to Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the tax bill.
The letter said the proposal made no provision for a thorough investigation prior to action by the President.
Cotton said Stans has been talking about voluntary agreements to slow down textile imports from Japan and other nations but has done little about it.
The Senate also checked tax reform advocates by killing, 65-25, a provision inserted by the Finance Committee to close what its members called a new loophole.

8th Arms Talks Session Held

HELSINKI (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union held the eighth session of their strategic arms limitation talks SALT today. The preliminary phase of the negotiations apparently will end here next week.
Conference sources said the two powers were working out the details of what issues to take up in full-scale talks to be held after the New Year. These sources said that the first phase in Helsinki will probably end on Monday or Tuesday.
No site has been announced for the second phase of SALT but the Soviet Union is understood to want to stay in Helsinki.
It "doesn't do me a bit of harm at home to have John Mitchell mad as hell at me," said a Senate Republican after casting his vote in defiance of the attorney general's strenuous efforts on Haynsworth's behalf.
When the roll was called, 17 Republicans voted against Haynsworth as the Senate, for the first time in 39 years, refused to confirm a presidential nominee to the Supreme Court. More significant than the number of defectors were the three who led Republican opposition to their own administration: Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, his assistant, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, and the chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine—Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in the Senate's GOP hierarchy.

Diphtheria Claims 2

MIAMI (AP) — An emergency shipment of 32,000 doses of serum was flown from Philadelphia today to stem a diphtheria outbreak which had taken the lives of two children.
Six medical teams were ready to start inoculating about 41,000 school pupils in the northwest section of Miami, where seven cases have appeared since October.
Diphtheria is caused by a germ almost everybody normally carries in his mouth, but which only occasionally causes the disease. An antitoxin often given in infancy provides complete protection.
"We have a definite outbreak and it is serious, especially when you consider this is the first time since 1962 we have had more than three cases," said Dr. Milton Saslaw, acting director of the Dade County Health Department.
"Every once in a while, for some unexplained reason, this bug causes actual illness centered in the throat and spreads throughout the body," Saslaw said.

Nixon Continues To Be In Trouble With Congressmen

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's troubles with Congress are being compounded by his failure to win support from key members of the congressional Republican leadership for some of his major proposals.
Influential Republicans, including at times the top leadership, have worked openly against Nixon's recommendations on civil rights, anti-poverty legislation, the Supreme Court nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and a major provision of the tax reform bill.
As a result, Nixon is winding up his first year in office, when a President's relations with Congress are usually their most cordial, with fewer accomplishments than might have been expected, even with the Democrats controlling both House and Senate.
In part Nixon's difficulties with his own leaders have been caused by policy disagreements born of the liberal-conservative split that has long plagued the Republican party. Capitol Hill Republicans also complain of tangled lines of communication with the White House.
But much of the difficulty stems from what House and Senate Republicans feel is a lack of White House understanding of the political problems certain votes can cause them.
Thus on the Haynsworth nomination, which stands as Nixon's bitterest defeat, the President's appeal for support was ineffective among senators from northern industrial states where the nominee's views on labor and civil rights were not widely shared by the voters.
"It doesn't do me a bit of harm at home to have John Mitchell mad as hell at me," said a Senate Republican after casting his vote in defiance of the attorney general's strenuous efforts on Haynsworth's behalf.
When the roll was called, 17 Republicans voted against Haynsworth as the Senate, for the first time in 39 years, refused to confirm a presidential nominee to the Supreme Court. Link Cult To 2 More Murders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bearded, long-haired and wearing fringe-trimmed buckskin clothing, Charles M. Manson appeared bewildered as he arrived in Los Angeles to be jailed on murder-conspiracy charges in the deaths of actress Sharon Tate and six others.
The 35-year-old leader of a communal clan he calls "the family" was brought here Tuesday night in a five-hour, 300-mile automobile trip from remote Inyo County, where he had been held on charges of arson and receiving stolen property.

Hatfield's letter cited Nixon's Nov. 25 renunciation of the use of chemical weapons unless an attacker employs them first. The President also asked the Senate to approve a 44-year-old treaty banning first use of chemical or biological warfare.
Hatfield said he wrote Nixon, "in effect, 'Here is a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate this policy.'"
The gas involved in the new shipment has been stockpiled on Okinawa, the Pacific island now destined to be returned to Japanese control in 1972.
The weapons—mustard gas and two types of nerve gas—were ordered removed nearly six months ago, after 24 American soldiers narrowly escaped injury or death from a leaky gas container.
Shipments will begin by January, with the weapons to be taken to Bangor, Wash., by ship, then transferred to railroad cars for the final 242-mile trip to Umatilla.
The budding controversy is reminiscent of earlier and successful efforts by East Coast congressmen to stop rail shipments of obsolete gas weapons from Colorado to New Jersey.

The Defense Department this fall had intended to dump the weapons in the Atlantic Ocean, but after strong complaints about safety, plans were revamped and the gas will be disposed of in Colorado.
"There will be from four to five shiploads, each ship containing a rail shipment consisting of approximately three trains, with each train containing about 50 cars," Magnuson said in a statement.
"I am asking the secretary of defense not to allow these shipments—the first due this month—until all doubts have been wiped away and we are certain that innocent persons along the route of travel have been given every protection," said Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.
Hatfield said the Army sent three chemical warfare experts to brief him on the planned shipment, but they did not shake his opposition.

Import Quota Amendments Delay Tax Reform Bill OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The touchy issue of import quotas on foreign products has been injected into the drawn-out Senate fight over tax reform, delaying final passage of the bill.
The quota fight erupted Tuesday, dimming the hopes of some Senate leaders for a speedy final vote. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said afterwards that amendments were coming so fast he didn't know when the measure will pass.
Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., GOP floor manager for the bill, said, however, he feels the 12-day-old floor battle was almost over.
Passage sends the bill to House-Senate conference where the measure's sponsors expect a compromise will be hammered out to remove or modify some Senate riders and thus avert the veto pledged by President Nixon.

Last week the Senate broadened the tax reform bill to include a far-ranging new section increasing Social Security benefits and bringing on the veto threat.
Tuesday Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., sparked the delaying debate when he proposed the trade rider.
It would authorize the President to impose import quotas against a commodity being shipped into the U.S. if he found it was harming U.S. companies or workers and if the producing country was putting restrictions on U.S. exports.
The amendment is strongly opposed by the Nixon administration. Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans urged its defeat in a letter to Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the tax bill.
The letter said the proposal made no provision for a thorough investigation prior to action by the President.
Cotton said Stans has been talking about voluntary agreements to slow down textile imports from Japan and other nations but has done little about it.
The Senate also shied at tax reform advocates by killing, 65-25, a provision inserted by the Finance Committee to close what its members called a new loophole.

HELINSKI (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union held the eighth session of their strategic arms limitation talks SALT today. The preliminary phase of the negotiations apparently will end here next week.
Conference sources said the two powers were working out the details of what issues to take up in full-scale talks to be held after the New Year. These sources said that the first phase in Helsinki will probably end on Monday or Tuesday.
No site has been announced for the second phase of SALT but the Soviet Union is understood to want to stay in Helsinki.

Goldberg Announces He Will Not Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Calling his decision "final and not subject to change," former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg says he will not be a candidate for governor or U.S. senator in the 1970 New York elections.
Goldberg, who faced a primary fight if he sought the Democratic party nomination for either post, announced his decision in a brief statement Tuesday evening.

MIAMI (AP) — An emergency shipment of 32,000 doses of serum was flown from Philadelphia today to stem a diphtheria outbreak which had taken the lives of two children.
Six medical teams were ready to start inoculating about 41,000 school pupils in the northwest section of Miami, where seven cases have appeared since October.
Diphtheria is caused by a germ almost everybody normally carries in his mouth, but which only occasionally causes the disease. An antitoxin often given in infancy provides complete protection.
"We have a definite outbreak and it is serious, especially when you consider this is the first time since 1962 we have had more than three cases," said Dr. Milton Saslaw, acting director of the Dade County Health Department.
"Every once in a while, for some unexplained reason, this bug causes actual illness centered in the throat and spreads throughout the body," Saslaw said.

Nixon Continues To Be In Trouble With Congressmen

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's troubles with Congress are being compounded by his failure to win support from key members of the congressional Republican leadership for some of his major proposals.
Influential Republicans, including at times the top leadership, have worked openly against Nixon's recommendations on civil rights, antipoverty legislation, the Supreme Court nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and a major provision of the tax reform bill.

As a result, Nixon is winding up his first year in office, when a President's relations with Congress are usually their most cordial, with fewer accomplishments than might have been expected, even with the Democrats controlling both House and Senate.
In part Nixon's difficulties with his own leaders have been caused by policy disagreements born of the liberal-conservative split that has long plagued the Republican party. Capitol Hill Republicans also complain of tangled lines of communication with the White House.

But much of the difficulty stems from what House and Senate Republicans feel is a lack of White House understanding of the political problems certain votes can cause them.
Thus on the Haynsworth nomination, which stands as Nixon's bitterest defeat, the President's appeal for support was ineffective among senators from northern industrial states where the nominee's views on labor and civil rights were not widely shared by the voters.

"It doesn't do me a bit of harm at home to have John Mitchell mad as hell at me," said a Senate Republican after casting his vote in defiance of the attorney general's strenuous efforts on Haynsworth's behalf.
When the roll was called, 17 Republicans voted against Haynsworth as the Senate, for the first time in 39 years, refused to confirm a presidential nominee to the Supreme Court. But more significant than the number of defections were the three who led Republican opposition to their own administration.

Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, his assistant, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, and the chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine—Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in the Senate's GOP hierarchy.
In the House, Republicans feel their home district political problems have been ignored by the administration in pressing for a two-year extension of the antipoverty program without change.
An overwhelming majority of them are prepared to vote against the President's position when the bill comes up this week.

House Republicans made attacks on the antipoverty program a keystone of their campaigns during the Johnson administration. Nixon also was sharply critical of it, but after transferring the Office of Economic Opportunity's choicest programs to other government agencies, he surprised Republicans by asking for its continuation with no further changes.

Pickaway FB Represented At Convention

Mrs. Norman W. Wilson of Circleville, member of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau, attended the 50th Anniversary meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Washington D.C. this week.

About 100 Farm Bureau presidents and growth chairmen and some wives from 50 counties made the bus trip to the nation's capital.

These county leaders helped to celebrate the American Farm Bureau's 50th meeting and represent local members who completed successful membership campaigns in 1969. A total of 51 county Farm Bureaus reached their membership quotas. Membership in the Pickaway County Farm Bureau is 629, an increase of 10 over last year.

While in Washington, Mrs. Wilson attended general sessions of the AFBF and a special breakfast for Ohioans and members of the Michigan delegation Tuesday. Trophies were exchanged as a climax to a membership contest between the two states.

Among the speakers at the meeting were Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin; Charles B. Schuman, president of the American Farm Bureau and Florida Senator Spessard L. Holland.

For 22 years he has been in active missionary service in north China and Korea.

Along with his administrative duties for the OMS, Dr. Kilbourne is vice president of the Seoul, Korea, Theological Seminary.

He will present the dramatic story of the church in Korea, its phenomenal growth and vital role in meeting the challenges of a young nation.

At present Dr. Kilbourne is in the United States on a one-year furlough and speaking tour.

Suit Kicked Out By Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 6th Circuit Court of Appeals closed Tuesday the books on a suit filed in 1963 by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charging the school board here with permitting defacto segregation.

The suit which saw four appeals, two each to both the appellate court and the U.S. Supreme Court, was denied by a three-judge panel. The circuit court again overruled the NAACP Tuesday.

The NAACP alleged that the school board allowed segregation by operating neighborhood schools with boundary lines. The suit asked the neighborhood schools be abandoned and schools be integrated by transporting children by bus to schools outside their neighborhood.

"We find no basis to enter any such order," said Judge Paul C. Weick, Akron, who wrote the unanimous decision.

"Boards of education can hardly be blamed or held responsible for neighborhood residential patterns," Judge Weick said in the 14-page opinion. He said further that no basis existed for an NAACP claim that Cincinnati schools and programs were gerrymandered to exclude Negroes from certain schools.

The NAACP had maintained that all black children had a constitutional right to attend an integrated school.

Order Probe Of Loopholes In New Draft Lottery Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has ordered a study of loopholes that could turn the new draft lottery system into a giant chess game with unmanageable pawns.

A White House source said staff members of the National Security Council, Defense Department and Selective Service have been asked to consider whether the acknowledged loopholes in the system "will be a real problem and, if so, what to do about it."

The most obvious loophole allows a deferred man in some cases, to choose the year he is exposed to the draft—presumably a year when his lottery number is unlikely to come up—by deliberately dropping his deferment in that year.

Col. Bernard T. Franck, an aide to draft Director Lewis B. Hershey, said some of the Selective Service System's legal experts think a college student, for example, could not give up his student deferment simply upon his own request, while remaining a student.

But Franck said he did not know whether this interpretation had ever been put to the test.

And even if it holds up, he conceded, it would not prevent a man from dropping his deferment by actually dropping out of school or quitting an essential job.

"They are kicking around a number of things," the White House source said, of the loophole study, "of which that is one."

Still another flaw is the reverse case of a man classified 1-A who seeks a deferment when it looks as if his number is getting hot. If he gets the deferment—and the local board may have no choice if he qualifies—he leaves the draft pool. He would not be exposed to the draft again, White House and Selective Service sources agreed, until he once more entered the 1-A pool.

Franck said a local board could prevent a man from jumping in and out of 1-A at will by refusing, somewhere along the line, to reconsider his classification.

But even with that limitation, some draftable men may try to "play the numbers," as draft-minded authorities now phrase it.

When President Nixon last month established the lottery system based on birthdays drawn at random, a White House fact sheet estimated about half the available men would be drafted in 1970. Because of differences between local boards, each applying the lottery list to its own draft pool, the actual numbers reached will vary.

Suit Kicked Out By Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — The 6th Circuit Court of Appeals closed Tuesday the books on a suit filed in 1963 by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charging the school board here with permitting defacto segregation.

The suit which saw four appeals, two each to both the appellate court and the U.S. Supreme Court, was denied by a three-judge panel. The circuit court again overruled the NAACP Tuesday.

The NAACP alleged that the school board allowed segregation by operating neighborhood schools with boundary lines. The suit asked the neighborhood schools be abandoned and schools be integrated by transporting children by bus to schools outside their neighborhood.

"We find no basis to enter any such order," said Judge Paul C. Weick, Akron, who wrote the unanimous decision.

"Boards of education can hardly be blamed or held responsible for neighborhood residential patterns," Judge Weick said in the 14-page opinion. He said further that no basis existed for an NAACP claim that Cincinnati schools and programs were gerrymandered to exclude Negroes from certain schools.

The NAACP had maintained that all black children had a constitutional right to attend an integrated school.

Michigan Officers Investigate Slaying

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Police searched for clues today in the knife slaying of a 19-year-old wife of a University of Michigan student. Her fully-clothed body was found by her husband Tuesday near a bassinet containing their three-week old daughter.

Police Chief Walter Krasny said it did not appear the slaying of Mrs. Gloria Murphy of Dearborn was connected with the slayings of eight other young women in the area during the last 2 1/2 years.

Order Probe Of Loopholes In New Draft Lottery Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has ordered a study of loopholes that could turn the new draft lottery system into a giant chess game with unmanageable pawns.

A White House source said staff members of the National Security Council, Defense Department and Selective Service have been asked to consider whether the acknowledged loopholes in the system "will be a real problem and, if so, what to do about it."

The most obvious loophole allows a deferred man in some cases, to choose the year he is exposed to the draft—presumably a year when his lottery number is unlikely to come up—by deliberately dropping his deferment in that year.

Col. Bernard T. Franck, an aide to draft Director Lewis B. Hershey, said some of the Selective Service System's legal experts think a college student, for example, could not give up his student deferment simply upon his own request, while remaining a student.

But Franck said he did not know whether this interpretation had ever been put to the test.

And even if it holds up, he conceded, it would not prevent a man from dropping his deferment by actually dropping out of school or quitting an essential job.

"They are kicking around a number of things," the White House source said, of the loophole study, "of which that is one."

Pickaway FB Represented At Convention

Mrs. Norman W. Wilson of Circleville, member of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau, attended the 50th Anniversary meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Washington D.C. this week.

About 100 Farm Bureau presidents and growth chairmen and some wives from 50 counties made the bus trip to the nation's capital.

These county leaders helped to celebrate the American Farm Bureau's 50th meeting and represent local members who completed successful membership campaigns in 1969. A total of 51 county Farm Bureaus reached their membership quotas. Membership in the Pickaway County Farm Bureau is 629, an increase of 10 over last year.

While in Washington, Mrs. Wilson attended general sessions of the AFBF and a special breakfast for Ohioans and members of the Michigan delegation Tuesday. Trophies were exchanged as a climax to a membership contest between the two states.

Among the speakers at the meeting were Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin; Charles B. Schuman, president of the American Farm Bureau and Florida Senator Spessard L. Holland.

Clerk Issues November Report

The November report of the Municipal Court has been released by Naomi Houghton, court clerk.

Total fines, costs and bond forfeitures collected during the month amounted to $10,261.19. Of this $5,384.75 is due the city of Circleville and $2,963.40 Pickaway County.

Other payments include $1,923.75 to the state treasurer; $17.60 to the County sheriff; $233 to the Division of Wild Life and $23.20 in subpoena fees.

On the docket for November, 376 criminal cases were filed and 335 completed, 17 of which all or part of the fines and costs were suspended. These amounted to $571.

Eleven civil cases were filed during the month and four concluded. In the small claims account, 41 cases were filed and 43 completed.

Lorna Poling Sings In OSU Recital

Miss Lorna Poling, a sophomore in the College of Arts at Ohio State University, was one of four voice students selected to participate in the Fall Quarter Honors Recital given in Hughes Hall Auditorium on Thursday of last week and Tuesday of this week by the School of Music.

Students are selected by the faculty members in the School of Music after earlier performances in Departmental Recitals. Miss Poling sang, "Durch Zärtlichkeit und Schmeicheln" from "Entführung Aus Dem Serail" by Mozart.

Miss Poling, as a member of the OSU Choral, has appeared with that group during recent weeks in a concert on the OSU campus as well as in concerts in Cincinnati and several concerts during a weekend tour in the Cleveland area.

This group will be heard this coming Sunday along with other Ohio State vocal groups in a Christmas concert. On Dec. 15, the Choral under the direction of Maurice Casey is scheduled to appear before a Columbus Kiwanis Club. This busy group will be going to Cleveland again early in January to appear before the Ohio Music Education association convention.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Poling, Route 4, and is a graduate of Logan Elm High School.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of New Bedford, Mass.

Dinis said he wouldn't appeal if he lost and would go ahead with an inquest at Edgartown, Mass.

Dinis ordered the inquest, he said, because Kennedy failed to report the mishap for nearly ten hours and made conflicting statements on how it happened.

Dinis said the postmortem was needed "to serve the public interest and promote the proper administration of justice."

Joseph F. Flanagan, attorney for the Kopechnes, said it would serve public curiosity more than public interest. And Mary Jo's father told the judge, "An autopsy would be just like another funeral to us."

The inquest was delayed pending a ruling on the autopsy petition.

The inquest will be closed to the public and news media—as ordered by the Massachusetts Supreme Court after a request for secrecy was made by Kennedy's lawyers.

Kennedy did not appear at the autopsy hearing, held here on Oct. 20-21. But his voice was heard in Brominski's courtroom, in a playback of a television recording of his account of the accident which he made to the nation on July 25.

That talk took place after the Massachusetts Democrat, only remaining son of the late Joseph P. Kennedy, pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Kennedy was placed on probation for two years and his driver's license was suspended for a year.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — As a measure of the economy's health, those jobless figures that are announced each month are suspect. If you accept them, then you must believe also that we are undergoing convulsions.

Through most of this year the jobless rate was a bit above or below 3.5 per cent. In September it leaped to 4 per cent, one of the sharpest increases in years and cause enough for suspicion.

In October the figure dropped a slight bit to 3.9 per cent but remained higher than in previous months and so was viewed as confirmation of a trend to greater joblessness.

Now comes the second shocker in two months. In November, the Labor Department announced, the rate plunged to 3.5 per cent, the sharpest drop in 10 years.

Imagine those figures on a line graph. Similar aberrations on a seismograph would indicate an earthquake, on a barometer a violent storm, on an electrocardiograph a heart attack, on a stock market chart some shocking news.

Now consider the figures in relation to the economy. For many months the Nixon administration has made the battle against inflation the No. 1 domestic issue. The surtax is being maintained, spending is being cut, money is being made tight.

Such a policy, we are told by economists, almost invariably results in a rise in unemployment.

ment. When the September figures came in, therefore, they were viewed as evidence that a slowdown was developing.

Administration spokesmen generally commented that nobody likes to see men out of work but that the figures, distressing as they were, offered evidence that the government was making headway against inflation.

The argument sounded convincing. In fact, if the figures were to be accepted as accurately portraying the employment picture, about the only logical explanation was the one being offered by the administration.

Moreover, it was confidently forecast by some economists that the rate of joblessness would rise to 4.5 per cent by the end of the year and maybe even to 5 per cent in 1970.

What is the explanation now after the jobless rate has dropped to one of the lowest rates since the Korean War and, in fact, to one of the lowest rates achieved in this century?

Are the slowdown actions of the administration that ineffective?

Are the economic forecasters that far off the mark?

Is there some major factor at work in the economy that isn't understood?

Are jobless figures unreliable as an economic barometer?

Is there a flaw in methodology?

Probe into these jobless figures and you discover the explanation.

nation may be buried deeply. You discover that the monthly figures are very complex and suited only to very sophisticated interpretation.

They show, for instance, that in November the civilian labor force grew at a slowing rate and that overtime hours in the factories declined, both seeming to verify the belief that the economy's expansion was becoming sluggish.

Such statistics, however, don't lend themselves to popular usage. The unemployment rate does and so it is often used as a barometer of the entire job situation, when really it should not be.

The month to month fluctuations shouldn't even be taken seriously at all, but they are. Consider the events following the announcement in October that the September jobless rate has risen.

Murray Weidenbaum, assistant secretary of the Treasury, commented cautiously that the figures indicated "we may be returning from an overheated, overemployed condition to more sustainable employment levels."

And former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey announced to a labor convention that the Republican policies not only are pushing up unemployment but were letting "the rich get richer and the rest of you pay for it."

Based on the latest figures, neither statement can be made today.

"I'LL NEVER forget the morning we arrived to see Niagara Falls," confided Mrs. O'Connor. "My husband's face dropped about a mile." "You mean he was disappointed by that glorious sight?" demanded Mrs. Boyle incredulously. "Not at all," Mrs. O'Connor assured her. "He fell over the rim."

The prize bull of the year was on exhibition at the State Fair. Rumor had it that the owner had refused an offer of a quarter of a million dollars from a would-be purchaser. Admission to see the animal was put at a dollar a head.

"I've brought my fifteen kids to see your prize," announced one youthful-looking farmer. "Do you think you could make a special rate for us all?"

"Fifteen kids," repeated the exhibitor with amazement. "You just wait here, mister. I'll bring him out to see YOU!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My 20-year-old daughter is planning to be married in five months. I do not know if she had German measles as a child. Can there be any adverse reaction to the new vaccine in a young adult?

Mrs. A.D.W., South Carolina

Dear Mrs. W.: Few adults really know the exact infectious diseases they may have had during childhood. Parents, too, have difficulty in recalling all of their children's diseases.

It is for this reason that I always urge parents to keep a written record of major illnesses of their children. I do not mean that this should be a burdensome documentary of every sore throat and insignificant illness. It should record vaccinations, boosters, contagious diseases, allergies to drugs, special episodes of illness and, of course, any surgical procedures.

I believe that every young woman who expects to become pregnant should safeguard her child by having a protective injection of the new German measles vaccine. As you know, calamitous deformities can occur in the newborn child whose mother, during pregnancy, had German measles.

Many of these are now avoidable if the mother has had proper vaccination. A massive campaign is now under way to vaccinate every girl, in the hope that the sadness of birth deformities from German measles can be completely eradicated.

The chance of an adverse reaction to the vaccine is slight. Your own physician will, of course, advise your daughter of any possibility of an allergic reaction to the ingredients of the vaccine.

The glands in my neck become swollen whenever I have an infection. I become terrified when they get large because I am sure I am developing a cancer. Then the glands get smaller and I feel better. Why does this happen to me and not to any of my friends?

Mrs. N. O., Arizona

Dear Mrs. O.: When the glands in the neck become swollen it means that they are helping to fight an infection somewhere in the nose, sinuses, or throat. In fact, it is a sign of your good health that your defense mechanisms are at work.

Your fear of cancer is not an unusual one in this anxious,

Speaker Holds The Pass

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
WASHINGTON — The movement to dump 77-year-old John McCormack, a veteran of 41 years in Congress, from his job as Speaker of the House has always faltered because of the lack of a real issue. Recently, the youngest House members thought they had the "old man" over a barrel because of the revelation that an administrative aid and a political friend had used his name in a case of influence-peddling. But nobody really believed that John McCormack could possibly have been personally involved in a scandal because he is more Puritanical than the Puritans even though his family arrived in Boston a couple of centuries after John Winthrop.

So one more issue died because of lack of substance. Then the Speaker let a House resolution backing President Nixon's efforts to negotiate a "just peace" in Vietnam come quickly to the floor. The super-liberal Democratic Study Group leaped to the attack. Maybe this was something that could be made to seem a blot on the McCormack record. After all, according to a Democratic Study Group count, some forty Democratic doves could be hurt in the 1970 elections if they voted for the resolution. It was so Representative Allard Lowenstein of New York complained, a "damned if you do and damned if you don't" situation. If the doves went along with the resolution they could be accused of endorsing a Saigon dictatorship in addition to supporting Mr. Nixon's hopes for peace. If, on the contrary, they voted against the resolution, they could be charged with "blocking national unity" and "supporting Hanoi."

The Speaker's public response to the effort to make a technical election-day issue of a House vote of confidence in Nixon was simply to point out that the resolution was "confined" to endorsing the principle of free elections in Vietnam. But, privately, he added some stronger reasons for his refusal to consult election-day expediency before letting the "peace" resolution reach the floor.

"Politics," he said, "stops at the water's edge." And the resolution (which eventually was approved by a 333-to-55 count) had, after all, originated with a Texas Democrat, Jim Wright. The Speaker doubted that the Democrats might lose forty seats if they supported Wright's position. But if they let Jim Wright down, they might conceivably lose eighty seats in states where it is still fashionable to stand by the President while a war is being fought.

The fact is that the effort to "get" McCormack on something involving simple patriotic response must boomerang unless the country itself goes to pieces before 1971, when a new Congress will vote on its Speaker for the 1971-73 term. Mr. McCormack has had a long experience in discounting those who have hoped to gain from premature accommodation with the Communists. When Premier Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev came to America at Eisenhower's invitation to visit at Camp David, Speaker Sam Rayburn was all set to invite the Soviet dictator to address the House. But McCormack, who remembered such things as the Nazi-Soviet Pact to dismember Poland, told Rayburn that he couldn't go along with the "hypocrisy" of asking a Marxist enemy of democratic institutions to talk to a body that would surely be liquidated if the Communists ever took over America.

Rayburn, who caught the whiff of a possibly dangerous rebellion, backed down.

Mr. McCormack has always been a strong "labor-liberal" on the domestic front, backing social security, the minimum wage, public housing and labor's right to organize and bargain collectively. So the Young Turks, who also support the labor-liberal domestic line, can't find a philosophical chink here in McCormack's armor. The foreign policy issue won't serve them any better unless the country unravels itself over the troubles in Vietnam. How do you deal with a man who says, with granitic conviction in his own patriotism, that "it is better to err on the side of strength than on the side of weakness?"

The Young Turks complain that McCormack refuses to open "new vistas" in the House. Yet he demonstrated his skill in pushing the Wright-sponsored "back-to-the-President-on-peace" resolution through the House with the addition of a clause about gaining decent treatment of prisoners of war from Hanoi. There was no "ossification" here, the "old man" got his way simply by remaining true to his character.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I suppose I really should retire. After I've been 40-some years in this business, people are going to start saying, 'Why the hell doesn't he quit?'"

Bing Crosby was talking not too seriously, I hope. His retirement would leave a large void in the ranks of the great performers. And there's really no need for it. Not when Bing can amble through a television special with his famed nonchalance, collect the money and hustle back to his family in Northern California or to his hunting and fishing.

He was in town for one of his periodic appearances, this time costarring with Carol Burnett in "Together Again for the First Time," a special which will appear on NBC Dec. 18. Bing sings "White Christmas," natch, and capers with guest stars Juliet Prowse and Roy Clark.

Bing spoke rather wistfully about retirement between rehearsals for the special, then explained why it wasn't practical: "I have some hefty commitments to charities every year. As long as I'm working, I can donate up to 30 per cent of my salaries to the charities. If I didn't work, I would have to take the money out of principal, and that's not such a good idea."

So I don't see 15 appearances a year. That includes American Sportsman, my golf tournament, the Hollywood Palace, Dean Martin, Hone, Carol Burnett, Jackie Gleason and some others.

You figure two-three days for each show, and that comes to a couple of months' work each year. That's about the way I like it.

Bing added that he spends a lot of time at home with the children in Burlingame, south of San Francisco. He maintains a heavy correspondence for causes he is concerned with, notably Ducks Unlimited, Trout Unlimited and other conservation groups.

20 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Evalan Hansel, Laurelville librarian, reported that so many books had disappeared from the library located in Smith's Confectionary, that the service might have to be withdrawn.

Pickaway County sports fans got their first taste of modern-day professional wrestling as four bouts were offered in the fairgrounds coliseum. Almost 1,000 people turned out to see Ruffy Silverstein, Frank Marconi, Walter "Sneeze" Achui, Billy Veneable, Pancho Valentino and Jim Spencer.

Charley Glitt, proprietor of Court — Main restaurant, promised the undefeated and untied Tiger grid team a game supper of venison, rabbit and pheasant. Glitt and Robert Elsea returned from a hunting trip to Michigan with two big bucks totaling 235 pounds, an amount they determined sufficient to feed the team.

Circleville Chamber of Commerce received a penny postal card containing no signature and postmarked San Diego, Calif. The card was allegedly sent from the "Public Relations Committee of the Los Angeles Citizens Safety Council in Cooperation with the National Tourists and Travelers Assn." It suggested that no one come or visit the city as there was a complete lack of law and order in Los Angeles and all judicial and police offices were controlled by criminal elements. The advice was un-solicited.

A 62-year-old ban on colored oleo was lifted by vote in November's election around the state. In Circleville there was little interest in it. Grocers were quick to announce that the white oleo would still be available for all the housewives who preferred to color their own.

Hall-Skins American Legion Post sponsored a toy dance at Memorial Hall for the benefit of needy children in the county. The price of admission was a toy, gift or candy.

The big cage game of the year was between Circleville and University Bucks of Columbus. Both teams were powerful with undefeated seasons.

County fair board gave the okay to the purchase of a new heating plant for the coliseum, costing $5,000.

A kid gang, led by a 23-year-old Circleville man, was nabbed for the wave of burglaries in Circleville. Four boys, three 15 years old and one 17, were arrested with their "leader."

Sandy Hill, Circleville's brilliant halfback of the 1949 grid season, swept state honors including making the Associated Press All-Ohio football team, most valuable player in the state, a 100 per cent nomination to the North - South All Star team, recipient of more votes than any other player named to the AP squad and captain of the All-Ohio team.

Carl Hawkes received the second highest advancement in Scouting as he was awarded the rank of Life Scout during a special ceremony for Boy Scout Troop 121.

Squire Oscar Root made plans for a hunting trip but refused to take his wife. Earlier in the year, the couple returned from another such trip with a 170 pound, 8-point buck — his wife's. All the Squire got was a cold.

Circleville Council President Luther Bower was forced to watch a regular council session from the sidelines. Bower held the title of mayor of the city for a few days in place of Mayor Thurman I. Miller, who was attending a meeting in Cleveland. Councilman Ray Anderson took over the job as president of council.

According To Boyle

By LOUISE COOK (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — For years, New York City cab drivers have been famous for two things: their knowledge of the city and their ability to start a conversation at the drop of the meter's flag.

Today, a rider who tells the cabbie to take him to the Waldorf-Astoria is likely to be told the driver won't go to Queens and the passenger who wants to chat will probably be told to keep quiet—if his words are acknowledged at all.

Even the cabbies themselves admit the change.

"These young guys today don't know how to drive a hack," complained one older driver. "In the old days, you'd hop in a cab, give an address and sit back. Now the fares tell me you gotta give directions."

To a regular cab rider, the driver's remark is an understatement. Two days in a row, drivers needed directions to get from Columbus Circle to Rockefeller Plaza, a mere dozen blocks separating two Manhattan landmarks known even to tourists.

"I usually work in the Bronx," was the excuse of one driver. "I'm new," explained the second.

Cab drivers also seem to have lost their facility for finding empty streets in the middle of traffic jams.

They used to be so familiar with the pattern of the city's vehicles they knew, for example, that from 9:15 to 9:30 in the morning Park Avenue was clear southbound from 69th to 54th Streets, while after 9:30 Lexington was a better route. Now they simply sit in traffic and fume.

Missed even more than the

New York's traffic you can't get anywhere anyway—is the conversation, the fund of usually useless information that every cabbie had at his fingertips.

In one day a rider could hear a plan for keeping the streets free of snow—an underground heating system—a tirade on passengers who don't tip well enough—all of them—and a 10-minute lecture on what's wrong with the country—too many politicians.

The only subject likely to interest a cabbie these days is the new push button meter, designed to go on automatically when a passenger sits down. It usually doesn't work, and the drivers are willing to give the passenger a list of what's wrong.

If the cab driver does attempt to talk, the passenger usually can't hear him and finds himself nodding and mumbling inanely in an attempt to look like he's listening.

Unaware of what's being said, the rider may find himself agreeing there should be a six-foot snowfall, higher taxes would be good or that New York City cabbies are better than ever.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Many people of the Westfall School District seem to be sitting complacently by with no thought as to what will happen if the 4 mill levy for current operating expenses is not passed Friday at the special election.

The attitude seems to be: "Let George do it."

We all know that everything we buy is much higher than it was ten years ago. So it goes with all the needs of a school district. All food, labor, services, maintenance costs, have increased and sometimes even doubled in the past 20 years.

I have heard it said, "the board of education lied to us. They promised better teachers, better curriculum and many other things when the new Westfall High School was built... but where are these things... we're no better off than we were with our local high schools."

Nobody lied to you... No one can see into the future... would you have dreamed ten years ago that prices would be what they are today? By and large we have dedicated teachers doing a fine job who would need drive only a few more miles to increase their salaries.

We lose good people every year because adjoining districts offer a better salary than Westfall. The answer to all these problems is money. Why don't we have a kindergarten? Money of course.

Many jobs are done by a few dedicated employees that will do anything they can to save the district money... make minor bus repairs, building maintenance. However, for every dedicated person there are those people of course who prefer to do nothing but find fault and criticize any and all things that don't suit them.

Let us all join forces this Friday and vote yes on this levy before more money is spent on other special elections.

If the Board didn't feel that there was a definite need for this levy they would not submit it. After all, they have not asked for an increase in ten years.

Are you able to live on the same amount of money you made ten years ago? Think about it.

Dear Editor:

To the parents of children: Does your child know the full meaning of Christmas?

Have you ever taken the time to explain to your little one that the Christmas Holiday we observe is a birthday anniversary for another child born many years ago—one who came into this world to make it possible for all boys and girls to grow into good men and women?

Have you ever tried to impress on that little one how happiness may be achieved by doing something for another or giving a gift to some less fortunate child, especially to those who have little? Would it not be a good thing for you to take your child to the door of homes where privation exists and present in person some suitable gift?

Let him see first hand how the less fortunate live and see if it does not stir up a desire to help.

Many a child would be thrilled to receive even an orange or sack of candy or maybe mittens or socks.

Let us try to teach our children that the real joy in Christmas is in making someone else happy.

Dad and mother, you have given liberally to the organizations that donate to the needy and that is commendable, but that is not enough.

If you are content with that, you have missed the point entirely.

Your privilege and duty is to impress upon your child the joy and satisfaction of doing something for someone else.

Let us do away with this unwise and foolish habit of fretting ourselves into a near fever in trying to decide what to buy for junior and sister.

The possibility is that the house may be well filled now with toys that they did not care for after the first glance. Isn't it true that many a child prefers a tin can or spool or an empty box to some expensive toy?

Let's try a different plan this year, and instead of asking the child the usual question of "What do you want for Christmas?" change it to "What are you giving the little sick children or some other unfortunate one?"

I think you will find that it stirs a responsive chord in your child's heart.

"I'LL NEVER forget the morning we arrived to see Niagara Falls," confided Mrs. O'Connor. "My husband's face dropped about a mile." "You mean he was disappointed by that glorious sight?" demanded Mrs. Boyle incredulously. "Not at all," Mrs. O'Connor assured her. "He fell over the rim."

The prize bull of the year was on exhibition at the State Fair. Rumor had it that the owner had refused an offer of a quarter of a million dollars from a would-be purchaser. Admission to see the animal was put at a dollar a head.

"I've brought my fifteen kids to see your prize," announced one youthful-looking farmer. "Do you think you could make a special rate for us all?"

"Fifteen kids," repeated the exhibitor with amazement. "You just wait here, mister. I'll bring him out to see YOU!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My 20-year-old daughter is planning to be married in five months. I do not know if she had German measles as a child. Can there be any adverse reaction to the new vaccine in a young adult?

Mrs. A.D.W., South Carolina
Dear Mrs. W.: Few adults really know the exact infectious diseases they may have had during childhood. Parents, too, have difficulty in recalling all of their children's diseases.

It is for this reason that I always urge parents to keep a written record of major illnesses of their children. I do not mean that this should be a burdensome documentary of every sore throat and insignificant illness. It should record vaccinations, boosters, contagious diseases, allergies to drugs, special episodes of illness and, of course, any surgical procedures.

I believe that every young woman who expects to become pregnant should safeguard her child by having a protective injection of the new German measles vaccine. As you know, calamitous deformities can occur in the newborn child whose mother, during pregnancy, had German measles.

Many of these are now avoidable if the mother has had proper vaccination. A massive campaign is now under way to vaccinate every girl, in the hope that the sadness of birth deformities from German measles can be completely eradicated.

The chance of an adverse reaction to the vaccine is slight. Your own physician will, of course, advise your daughter of any possibility of an allergic reaction to the ingredients of the vaccine.

The glands in my neck become swollen whenever I have an infection. I become terrified when they get large because I am sure I am developing a cancer. Then the glands get smaller and I feel better. Why does this happen to me and not to any of my friends?

Mrs. N. O., Arizona
Dear Mrs. O.: When the glands in the neck become swollen it means that they are helping to fight an infection somewhere in the nose, sinuses, or throat. In fact, it is a sign of your good health that your defense mechanisms are at work.

Your fear of cancer is not an unusual one in this anxious,

Speaker Holds The Pass

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

WASHINGTON — The movement to dump 77-year-old John McCormack, a veteran of 41 years in Congress, from his job as Speaker of the House has always faltered because of the lack of a real issue. Recently, the youngest House members thought they had the "old man" over a barrel because of the revelation that an administrative aid and a political friend had used his name in a case of influence-peddling. But nobody really believed that John McCormack could possibly have been personally involved in a scandal because he is more Puritanical than the Puritans even though his family arrived in Boston a couple of centuries after John Winthrop.

So one more issue died because of lack of substance. Then the Speaker let a House resolution backing President Nixon's efforts to negotiate a "just peace" in Vietnam come quickly to the floor. The super-liberal Democratic Study Group leaped to the attack. Maybe this was something that could be made to seem a blot on the McCormack record. After all, according to a Democratic Study Group count, some forty Democratic doves could be hurt in the 1970 elections if they voted for the resolution. It was, so Representative Allard Lowenstein of New York complained, a "damned if you do and damned if you don't" situation. If the doves went along with the resolution they could be accused of endorsing a Saigon dictatorship in addition to supporting Mr. Nixon's hopes for peace. If, on the contrary, they voted against the resolution, they could be charged with "blocking national unity" and "supporting Hanoi."

The Speaker's public response to the effort to make a technical election-day issue of a House vote of confidence in Nixon was simply to point out that the resolution was "confined" to endorsing the principle of free elections in Vietnam. But, privately, he added some stronger reasons for his refusal to consult election-day expediency before letting the "peace" resolution reach the floor.

"Politics," he said, "stops at the water's edge." And the resolution (which eventually was approved by a 333-to-55 count) had, after all, originated with a Texas Democrat, Jim Wright. The Speaker doubted that the Democrats might lose forty seats if they supported Wright's position. But if they let Jim Wright down, they might conceivably lose eighty seats in states where it is still fashionable to stand by the President while a war is being fought.

The fact is that the effort to "get" McCormack on something involving simple patriotic response must boomerang unless the country itself goes to pieces before 1971, when a new Congress will vote on its Speaker for the 1971-73 term. Mr. McCormack has had a long experience in discounting those who have hoped to gain from premature accommodation with the Communists. When Premier Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev came to America at Eisenhower's invitation to visit at Camp David, Speaker Sam Rayburn was all set to invite the Soviet dictator to address the House. But McCormack, who remembered such things as the Nazi-Soviet Pact to dismember Poland, told Rayburn that he couldn't go along with the "hypocrisy" of asking a Marxist enemy of democratic institutions to talk to a body that would surely be liquidated if the Communists ever took over America.

Rayburn, who caught the whiff of a possibly dangerous rebellion, backed down.

Mr. McCormack has always been a strong "labor-liberal" on the domestic front, backing social security, the minimum wage, public housing and labor's right to organize and bargain collectively. So the Young Turks, who also support the labor-liberal domestic line, can't find a philosophical chink here in McCormack's armor. The foreign policy issue won't serve them any better unless the country unravels itself over the troubles in Vietnam. How do you deal with a man who says, with granitic conviction in his own patriotism, that "it is better to err on the side of strength than on the side of weakness?"

The Young Turks complain that McCormack refuses to open "new vistas" in the House. Yet he demonstrated his skill in pushing the Wright-sponsored "back-to-the-peace" resolution through the House with the addition of a clause about gaining decent treatment of prisoners of war from Hanoi. There was no "ossification" here, the "old man" got his way simply by remaining true to his character.

Bing To Retire?

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I suppose I really should retire. After I've been 40-some years in this business, people are going to start saying, 'Why the hell doesn't he quit?'"

Bing Crosby was talking, not too seriously, I hope. His retirement would leave a large void in the ranks of the great performers. And there's really no need for it. Not when Bing can amble through a television special with his famed nonchalance, collect the money and hustle back to his family in Northern California or to his hunting and fishing.

He was in town for one of his periodic appearances, this time costarring with Carol Burnett in "Together Again for the First Time," a special which will appear on NBC Dec. 18. Bing sings "White Christmas," natch, and capers with guest stars Juliet Prowse and Roy Clark.

Bing spoke rather wistfully about retirement between rehearsals for the special, then explained why it wasn't practical.

"I have some hefty commitments to charities every year. As long as I'm working, I can donate up to 30 per cent of my salaries to the charities. If I didn't work, I would have to take the money out of principal, and that's not such a good idea."

"So I do about 15 appearances a year. That includes American Sportsman, my golf tournament, the Hollywood Palace, Dean Martin, Hone, Carol Burnett, Jackie Gleason and some others."

You figure two-three days for each show, and that comes to a couple of months' work each year. That's about the way I like it.

Bing added that he spends a lot of time at home with the children in Burlingame, south of San Francisco. He maintains a heavy correspondence, for causes he is concerned with, notably Ducks Unlimited, Trout Unlimited and other conservation groups.

20 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Evalyn Hansel, Laurelville librarian, reported that so many books had disappeared from the library located in Smith's Confectionary, that the service might have to be withdrawn.

Pickaway County sports fans got their first taste of modern-day professional wrestling as four bouts were offered in the fairgrounds coliseum. Almost 1,000 people turned out to see Ruffy Silverstein, Frank Marconi, Walter "Sneeze" Achu, Billy Venebale, Pancho Valentino and Jim Spencer.

Charley Glitt, proprietor of Court — Main restaurant, promised the undefeated and untied Tiger grid team a game supper of venison, rabbit and pheasant. Glitt and Robert Elsea returned from a hunting trip to Michigan with two big bucks totaling 235 pounds, an amount they determined sufficient to feed the team.

Circleville Chamber of Commerce received a penny postal card containing no signature and postmarked San Diego, Calif. The card was allegedly sent from the "Public Relations Committee of the Los Angeles Citizens Safety Council in Cooperation with the National Tourists and Travelers Assn." It suggested that no one come or visit the city as there was a complete lack of law and order in Los Angeles and all judicial and police offices were controlled by criminal elements. The advice was unsolicited.

A 62-year-old ban on colored oleo was lifted by vote in November's election around the state. In Circleville there was little interest in it. Grocers were quick to announce that the white oleo would still be available for all the housewives who preferred to color their own.

Hall-Adkins American Legion Post sponsored a toy dance at Memorial Hall for the benefit of needy children in the county. The price of admission was a toy, gift or candy.

The big cage game of the year was between Circleville and University Bucks of Columbus. Both teams were powerful with undefeated seasons.

County fair board gave the okay to the purchase of a new heating plant for the coliseum, costing $5,000.

A kid gang, led by a 23-year-old Circleville man, was nabbed for the wave of burglaries in Circleville. Four boys, three 15 years old and one 17, were arrested with their "leader."

Sandy Hill, Circleville's brilliant halfback of the 1949 grid season, swept state honors including making the Associated Press All-Ohio football team, most valuable player in the state, a 100 per cent nomination to the North-South All Star team, recipient of more votes than any other player named to the AP squad and captain of the All-Ohio team.

Carl Hawkes received the second highest advancement in Scouting as he was awarded the rank of Life Scout during a special ceremony for Boy Scout Troop 121.

Squire Oscar Root made plans for a hunting trip but refused to take his wife. Earlier in the year, the couple returned from another such trip with a 170 pound, 8-point buck — his wife's. All the Squire got was a cold.

Circleville Council President Luther Bower was forced to watch a regular council session from the sidelines. Bower held the title of mayor of the city for a few days in place of Mayor Thurman I. Miller, who was attending a meeting in Cleveland. Councilman Ray Anderson took over the job as president of council.

According To Boyle

By LOUISE COOK (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — For years, New York City cab drivers have been famous for two things: their knowledge of the city and their ability to start a conversation at the drop of the meter's flag.

Today, a rider who tells the cabbie to take him to the Waldorf-Astoria is likely to be told the driver won't go to Queens and the passenger who wants to chat will probably be told to keep quiet—if his words are acknowledged at all.

Even the cabbies themselves admit the change.

"These young guys today don't know how to drive a hack," complained one older driver. "In the old days, you'd hop in a cab, give an address and sit back. Now the fares tell me you gotta give directions."

To a regular cab rider, the driver's remark is an understatement. Two days in a row, drivers needed directions to get from Columbus Circle to Rockefeller Plaza, a mere dozen blocks separating two Manhattan landmarks known even to tourists.

"I usually work in the Bronx," was the excuse of one driver. "I'm new," explained the second.

Cab drivers also seem to have lost their facility for finding empty streets in the middle of traffic jams.

They used to be so familiar with the pattern of the city's highways they knew, for example, that from 9:15 to 9:30 in the morning Park Avenue was clear — bounded from 69th to 54th Streets, while after 9:30 Lexington was a better route. Now they simply sit in traffic and fume.

Missed even more than the

New York's traffic you can't get anywhere anyway—is the conversation, the fund of usually useless information that every cabbie had at his fingertips.

In one day a rider could hear a plan for keeping the streets free of snow—an underground heating system—a tirade on passengers who don't tip well enough—all of them—and a 10-minute lecture on what's wrong with the country—too many politicians.

The only subject likely to interest a cabbie these days is the new push button meter, designed to go on automatically when a passenger sits down. It usually doesn't work, and the drivers are willing to give the passenger a list of what's wrong.

If the cab driver does attempt to talk, the passenger usually can't hear him and finds himself nodding and murmuring inanely in an attempt to look like he's listening.

Unaware of what's being said, the rider may find himself agreeing there should be a six-foot snowfall, higher taxes would be good or that New York City cabbies are better than ever.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Many people of the Westfall School District seem to be sitting complacently by with no thought as to what will happen if the 4 mill levy for current operating expenses is not passed Friday at the special election.

The attitude seems to be: "Let George do it."

We all know that everything we buy is much higher than it was ten years ago. So it goes with all the needs of a school district. All food, labor, services, maintenance costs, have increased and sometimes even doubled in the past 20 years.

I have heard it said, "the board of education lied to us. They promised better teachers, better curriculum and many other things when the new Westfall High School was built . . . but where are these things . . . we're no better off than we were with our local high schools."

Nobody lied to you . . . No one can see into the future . . . would you have dreamed ten years ago that prices would be what they are today? By and large we have dedicated teachers doing a fine job who would need only a few more miles to increase their salaries.

We lose good people every year because adjoining districts offer a better salary than Westfall. The answer to all these problems is money. Why don't we have a kindergarten? Money of course.

Many jobs are done by a few dedicated employees that will do anything they can to save the district money . . . make minor bus repairs, building maintenance. However, for every dedicated person there are those people of course who prefer to do nothing but find fault and criticize any and all things that don't suit them.

Let us all join forces this Friday and vote yes on this levy before more money is spent on other special elections.

If the Board didn't feel that there was a definite need for this levy they would not submit it. After all, they have not asked for an increase in ten years.

Are you able to live on the same amount of money you made ten years ago? Think about it.

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's Tuesday night lineup is full of good, strong and well-paced entertainment and has built up to the point where it is the network's strongest night in the Nielsen ratings.

"Mod Squad" established itself last season. Its trio of attractive young stars made a hit with the younger viewers and its fast-moving police stories attracted more and more older viewers.

"Movie of the Week," the artfully named 90-minute anthology series that follows, manages to come up with better scripts and interesting characters often — more often than those more elaborate and star-studded two-hour features the networks are turning out to help fill the short supply of old movies.

This week's program was an adaptation of a Paul Gallico story, a dandy mixture of espionage and apparitions. It was the story of a professor, working in a sensitive field, who sees the ghost of and hears the voice of his recently deceased young daughter.

Ray Milland and Gene Tierney, neither of whom have been seen on television recently, played the puzzled professor and his doubting wife. Don Murray was a psychologist who finally unraveled the complicated gambit in international spying.

The evening winds up with one of the new season's top hits, "Marcus Welby, M.D.," which is in a familiar mold, surely, but is helped immeasurably by the warmth of Robert Young in the title role.

The case history unfolded Tuesday night was that of a Negro police sergeant who hoped to become the first black lieutenant in his county. This led him to seek help secretly from a doctor because he feared his poor physical condition might jeopardize his promotion.

One of the advantages of the doctor show format is that the focus of the story can be on the medic or on the patient, which gives the writers more freedom than most series can afford. In this case, concentrating on the problems of the ailing police man, the story line carried with it some shrewd and non-preachy observations about black and white relationships.

The same old problem remains, however: how to write realistically about a practicing doctor, his patients and their diseases without stirring up the hypochondriacs in the audience. There may be a lot of doctors later this week with patients complaining of dizziness, nausea, shortness of breath and insisting that their systems are producing too much insulin: the policeman's problem.

Soap operas continue to become more important day-time commodities. ABC will soon launch three more on its network channels—one next month and two in March. The March shows will start when the network expands its daytime schedule by an hour, starting at 11 a.m. instead of noon, as it does now.

Apollo 12 Moon Explorers To Leave Quarantine Early

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The isolation of quarantine is the price an astronaut pays for landing on the moon, says Charles Conrad, Jr., the third man to walk the lunar surface. The Apollo 12 spacemen finish paying that price today—they walk outside on earth for the first time in almost a month.

Conrad, Alan L. Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr. will be released from the quarantine of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory 27 days after they boarded their spacecraft for a trip to the moon.

would not end until 5:30 a.m. (EST) Thursday.

But the Interagency Committee on Back Contamination, which controls the duration of quarantine, was satisfied that blood tests had shown them totally free of any possible moon microbes.

So the end of quarantine was advanced to Wednesday afternoon, permitting the spacemen to rejoin their families at a more reasonable hour.

Also included in the earlier release were:

—Seven scientists and four technicians who joined the quarantine when they were accidentally exposed to moon dust in a laboratory Dec. 1.

—Sixteen cooks, technicians and housekeeping crew members who had been assigned to share the astronauts' isolation from the start.

The astronauts arrived at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory Nov. 29 in the silver isolation van they entered aboard the splashdown recovery ship USS Hornet in the Pacific Nov. 24.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

The weather scene in Ohio was uneventful overnight with sky conditions variable and no precipitation reported.

Temperatures ranged from 27 in Toledo to 34 in Marietta early today.

A low pressure center in the Gulf of Mexico this morning will be the dominant factor in Ohio weather through Thursday morning.

The low could push some rain into the state during the period, particularly in the southeastern and eastern counties.

—FORECASTS—

OHIO — Light rain south by early afternoon spreading over the remainder of the state this afternoon and tonight. Lows tonight in the middle 30s to the upper 20s. Mostly cloudy with a chance of showers northeast Thursday and partly cloudy southwest. Little temperature change.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday. A chance of mixed rain and snow tonight. Lows in the upper 20s and the lower 30s. Highs Thursday in the upper 30s to the lower 40s.

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly cloudy tonight with rain. Lows in the middle to lower 30s. Thursday considerable cloudiness and not much change in temperatures. Highs 40-45.

SOUTHEAST & EAST CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly cloudy tonight with rain. Lows in the middle to lower 30s. Thursday considerable cloudiness and chance of a few showers with not much change in temperatures. Highs in the lower 40s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Mostly cloudy tonight with light rain. Lows in the lower 30s. Partly cloudy Thursday. Highs in the lower 40s.

LAKE ERIE — Northeast winds 15-22 knots tonight. Rain and snow.

OHIO FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures will average above normal Thursday through Monday. Highs will be in the 40s and lows will range from the upper 20s to the mid 30s. Mild throughout the period with no major day-to-day changes. Precipitation will total about .68 inch liquid as rain or snow about Saturday and again about Monday.

Rain, Snow Dampen Much Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain and snow dampened or chilled wide areas of the nation today and thunderstorms rumbled across the Deep South.

A tornado watch was in effect for a time in portions of Alabama, Georgia and Florida. More than 2 inches of rain soaked the Daytona Beach and Tampa-St. Petersburg areas.

Rain also spread inland along the central and northern Pacific Coast and turned to snow eastward into the Rockies.

Locally heavy snow was forecast for mountain sections of northern and central California.

Rain in the central plains turned to occasional freezing drizzle northeastward in the western Midwest.

More snow piled up in eastern and northern Minnesota and adjacent areas of Wisconsin. Minneapolis-St. Paul recorded 87 hours of continuous—though not always heavy—snowfall through midafternoon Tuesday, surpassing a record going back to 1950. The depth was 14.2 inches.

Scattered drizzle fell in New England, but most other sections of the East were dry and relatively mild.

Coldest weather was centered in the northern plains where Bismarck, N.D., chilled down to 4 above zero before daybreak. Key West, Fla., had a balmy 77 at the same hour.

Rain, Snow Dampen Much Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain and snow dampened or chilled wide areas of the nation today and thunderstorms rumbled across the Deep South.

A tornado watch was in effect for a time in portions of Alabama, Georgia and Florida. More than 2 inches of rain soaked the Daytona Beach and Tampa-St. Petersburg areas.

Rain also spread inland along the central and northern Pacific Coast and turned to snow eastward into the Rockies.

Locally heavy snow was forecast for mountain sections of northern and central California.

Rain in the central plains turned to occasional freezing drizzle northeastward in the western Midwest.

More snow piled up in eastern and northern Minnesota and adjacent areas of Wisconsin. Minneapolis-St. Paul recorded 87 hours of continuous—though not always heavy—snowfall through midafternoon Tuesday, surpassing a record going back to 1950. The depth was 14.2 inches.

Scattered drizzle fell in New England, but most other sections of the East were dry and relatively mild.

Coldest weather was centered in the northern plains where Bismarck, N.S., chilled down to 4 above zero before daybreak. Key West, Fla., had a balmy 77 at the same hour.

Birds Of A Feather

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Birds of a feather flocked together when Dolores Finch, 23, and Dennis Sparrow, 24, held a family party to celebrate their engagement. They were carrying on a family tradition, for Dennis' mother was one of four sisters, two of whom married two brothers named Sparrow. The other two married brothers called Partridge. One of the Partridge daughters married a Mr. Hen. To top it all, Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow (senior) live in a house called The Nest.

MRS. ROGER K. TATMAN

The wedding of Miss Sally Ann Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Webb, Route 1, Kingston, and Mr. Roger K. Tatman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tatman of Tarlton, took place 3:30 p.m. Nov. 27 in Aldergate Methodist Church, Charlotte, N.C. The Rev. Fred A. Carlisle Jr. performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, P. Ronald F. Webb, the bride selected for her wedding a floor length gown of white acetate under a lace coat dress with full length sleeves and scalloped neckline. Matching lace edged her double silk illusion mantilla which flowed gracefully into chapel length. She carried a cascade arrangement of white orchids and pompon mums.

Miss Sarah Morgan, organist, presented a half-hour program of nuptial music preceding the marriage rites.

Mrs. Paul Allen of Route 4, Circleville, served her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Bonnie Jones of Tarlton. The attendants wore sheer nylon coat dresses over nylon lace in romance blue and aqua respectively. Their head pieces were brief matching veils held with large bows of sheer nylon and they carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white pompon mums.

Mr. Paul Allen, brother-in-law of the bride, performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests was Thomas Webb, brother of the bride.

A dinner for family members followed the ceremony before

U.N. Calls For Ban On A-Tests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union failed Tuesday to head off an appeal that they declare a moratorium on testing and deploying new nuclear missile-and-antimissile weapons.

The 12 nonaligned members of the Geneva Disarmament Committee and three other nations, made the appeal in a resolution. The vote in the General Assembly was 60-0 in favor with 40 abstentions. The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain abstained, but the vote assured passage of the resolution in the General Assembly.

The resolution hailed the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) in Helsinki, but urged the United States and the Soviet Union to "agree as an urgent preliminary measure on a moratorium on further testing and deployment of new offensive and defensive strategic nuclear-weapons systems."

The Americans and the Russians both made clear during the debate that they wanted to be left alone while they are negotiating in Helsinki.

With British support, they tried to water down the resolution with a clause requesting the superpowers to "refrain from any action which might be prejudicial to the achievement of... substantial agreements on the limitation and subsequent reduction of strategic armaments."

The amendment failed by a vote of 40-50 with 16 abstentions.

Senate Eyes Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The smallest U.S. foreign aid package since World War II has passed the House and has headed for a Senate confrontation over military aid to Nationalist China and South Korea.

The $1.6 billion global assistance bill, which falls $1 billion short of the amount asked by President Nixon, is the lowest since the program began with the Marshall Plan for European recovery in 1948. It reached a $7.49 billion peak in 1950-51. Last year's foreign aid appropriation was $1.75 billion.

The measure, approved 200-195 in a night House vote Tuesday, contains a hotly disputed $54.5 million to furnish fighter planes for Nationalist China, $50 million in special military aid for South Korea and a provision added at the last minute that bars aid to countries trading with Communist China.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is expected to force a floor fight on the appropriations bill. His committee Monday approved an authorization bill expressly banning the $104.5 million for the Asian allies.

Should the differences prove unreconcilable in the two weeks remaining before Christmas, President Nixon may have to call the special session he has threatened if all appropriations measures are not completed before Jan. 1.

Judge Ammer To Attend Conference

Common Pleas Judge William Ammer will attend the annual meeting of the Ohio Common Pleas Judges Assn. to be held at the Fort Hayes Hotel in Columbus, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Judge Ammer will join other judges from Ohio to discuss topics of interest to the judiciary as a part of the continuing legal education program. These meetings bring about an exchange of ideas among trial judges of the state to improve the administration of justice.

In conjunction with the meeting a seminar will be conducted by the National College of State Trial Judges of Reno, Nev.

Four experts in criminal and civil trial evidence will lead discussions of the seminar. Circuit Judge Creighton R. Coleman of Battle Creek, Mich., will discuss demonstrative evidence; Judge Bernard Meyer of Mineola, New York will discuss the expert witness; Judge Horace Gilmore of Detroit, a former Circleville resident, will talk on criminal evidence and Professor Vaughn C. Ball of the University of Virginia will make a presentation on judicial notice and presumptions.

Other activities on the agenda include a banquet Friday and the election and installation of new officers. On Saturday, OBAR, the Ohio State Bar Assn. computer for legal research, will be demonstrated to the judges.

Supreme Court Rules On Ohio Petition Forms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the state of Ohio does not interfere with the right to petition when it requires voters to designate wards and precincts in referendum petitions.

The high court rejected 7-1 the claim by Cuyahoga County Auditor Ralph Perk "for want of a substantial federal question." Justice William O. Douglas refused to hear the case.

The issue arose last March in Cleveland when residents requested a referendum on a new one-half per cent sales tax. Most did not designate their wards and precincts.

The Ohio Supreme Court upheld the Cuyahoga County prosecutor's ruling that the requirement did not violate the Constitution Perk had ruled the petitions valid.

The legislature has since then repealed the requirement. The tax in question went into effect Sept. 1.

Pickaway Program Time Changed

Pickaway Twp. School's Christmas program will be held 8 p.m. Thursday rather than 7:30 p.m. as previously announced.

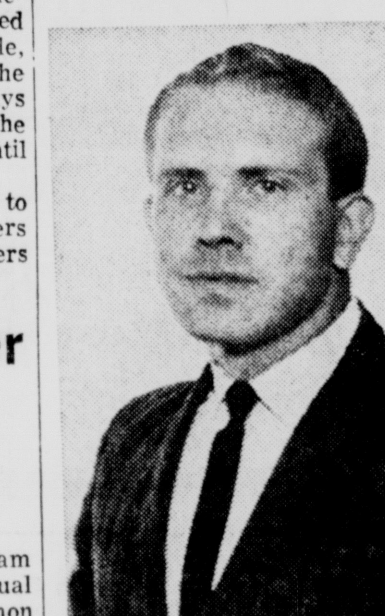

SHE PREFERS "HOME BABIES"—Five hours after Daniel Robert Alastair Kitts was born in the living room of his parents' home in Washington with only the assistance of his father, his mother, Mrs. Sybil Kitts, was back on her job driving a school bus. She has delivered three of her five children by herself, had one delivery in the usual manner in a hospital, and delivered one in a hospital labor room.

South Court School Slates Yule Playlet

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday the South Court Street School will present "Christmas Then and Now."

This playlet will feature songs by kindergarten, grades one, two and three and acting by children from each of the rooms.

The program centers around a family with the father relating events of his childhood and those of his children in this year.

All parents and friends are invited to attend the program.

The board approved a recommendation to donate some items to the Pickaway County Historical Society. Included in the list are school bells from High Street and Walnut Street schools, a map dating to the late 1890's and an antique schoolmaster's desk.

A resignation was accepted from Marilyn J. Bowers, study hall monitor, effective Dec. 15. Approved for employment were Jeff Kiser and Ralph Roby as custodians in the elementary schools. Roby was hired in a substitute position. Members also voted for the re-employment of Virgil Cress as business manager for the calendar year 1970.

Senate Eyes Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The smallest U.S. foreign aid package since World War II has passed the House and has headed for a Senate confrontation over military aid to Nationalist China and South Korea.

The $1.6 billion global assistance bill, which falls $1 billion short of the amount asked by President Nixon, is the lowest since the program began with the Marshall Plan for European recovery in 1948. It reached a $7.49 billion peak in 1950-51. Last year's foreign aid appropriation was $1.75 billion.

The measure, approved 200-195 in a night House vote Tuesday, contains a hotly disputed $54.5 million to furnish fighter planes for Nationalist China, $50 million in special military aid for South Korea and a provision added at the last minute that bars aid to countries trading with Communist China.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is expected to force a floor fight on the appropriations bill. His committee Monday approved an authorization bill expressly banning the $104.5 million for the Asian allies.

Should the differences prove unreconcilable in the two weeks remaining before Christmas, President Nixon may have to call the special session he has threatened if all appropriations measures are not completed before Jan. 1.

A change of boiler insurance to Hummel and Plum, previously approved was resubmitted to the board for a premium increase to $374 for a 2 1/2 year period. The new rate is due to additional equipment qualifying under boiler insurance.

In money actions, a new account was established in the amount of $5, enabling board members to participate in the school's Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs. Annual dues to the Ohio School Board Assn. were authorized at $150.

Bids for the Di-Acro Bender, previously approved for purchase were submitted by Broadhead Garrett at $499 and Industrial Machinery and Morehouse Supply, $506. Mrs. Sandra Reeves will be employed as half-time elementary teacher with possible full-time employment at a future date.

Members granted the Berger Hospital General Guild use of the high school auditorium, March 17-21, for presentation of High Fever Follies.

Craft Session Set At Library

Mrs. Donald W. Flierl, member of the AAUW and the Ashville Civic Club, will present a program of craft ideas and decorations for the holidays, at the Pickaway County District Public Library at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday.

This program coincides with the Children's Story Hours so that mothers bringing their children to the Library may conveniently attend.

Other interested persons are invited. Mrs. Flierl has asked that those who come to the sessions bring their own scissors.

SHE PREFERS "HOME BABIES"—Five hours after Daniel Robert Alastair Kitts was born in the living room of his parents' home in Washington with only the assistance of his father, his mother, Mrs. Sybil Kitts, was back on her job driving a school bus. She has delivered three of her five children by herself, had one delivery in the usual manner in a hospital, and delivered one in a hospital labor room.

Expansion Program Set By General Telephone

MARION, — Plans for a record $300 million expansion program the next five years for General Telephone Co. of Ohio and Northern Ohio Telephone Co. were announced today by Robert M. Wopat, president.

The two utilities are subsidiaries of General Telephone & Electronics Corp., New York. They serve more than 575,000 telephones in 79 of Ohio's 88 counties.

Construction in 1970 will total $48 million, up almost 14 per cent from 1969, he said. Of that General will spend $31.4 million and Northern, almost $16.6 million, in comparison with $20 million and $11.3 million, respectively, in 69.

"Our chief effort in 1970 will be to continue our statewide service improvement program," said Wopat. "Some 2,000 specific projects planned will improve local and long distance facilities in the 264 central offices of the companies."

To finance the 1970 program, the companies will borrow about $30 million, he said. They will draw the rest from surplus reserves and depreciation funds.

"We are planning these costly programs in spite of the inflationary economic trend," said Wopat. "Just as every other business, we are faced with rising costs of materials, wages, taxes and interest rates."

He pointed out, however, every effort is being exerted to keep costs down. He said earnings continually are declining, owing to spiraling costs of doing business.

"It should be mentioned," Wopat noted, "that General of Ohio's rates, for instance, are based on business levels of Dec. 31, 1958. Obviously, other costs have risen tremendously in this 11-year period. But General's rates have remained the same."

In 1970 there will be some acceleration of the service improvement portion of the budget. This will allow reducing the number of customers on party lines in many places.

Much work in this area involves expansion of outside cable distribution facilities in urban and rural areas. General of Ohio plans to construct 148,844 additional "pair" miles of cable, and Northern, 37,645.

General will bury 66 per cent of its new cable, a 50 per cent increase over '69. Northern plan to bury about 60 per cent.

Expansion of local and long distance call-switching equipment also is planned in many exchanges.

Other general segments of improvement will include adding test facilities, service centers and cable pressurization in areas not already equipped. A $1 million company-wide project to install cable pressurization facilities for all Northern offices is under way.

"We are also looking to the future," said Wopat. "Some changes in basic concepts of service will take place in the five-year period."

He cited electronic switching as an example. A decision is upcoming in 70 as to which exchange will be the companies' first. The ultra-modern electronic system is called "Electronic Automatic Exchange" (EAX).

"This system," said Wopat, "provides faster and more reliable service than present-day electro-mechanical facilities. Under EAX connection of a local call is almost instantaneous. "Touch Calling" (pushbuttons, instead of dial) phones will be offered with EAX.

The electronic, solid-state switching systems also are more compact, thus reducing the need for widespread building additions. EAX features computer-controlled central processing. Its own maintenance operation is programmed into the computer. The 1970 program involves capital additions at a rate of more than $4 million a month. Categories of outlays are: land and buildings, $5.8 million; call-switching equipment, $15.8 million; phone instruments and PBX, $9.2 million, and general equipment (vehicles, tools, office equipment), $2 million.

A gain of 38,031 telephones is forecast for a total of 619,536 phones by year end 1970.

Long distance calls are expected to increase 11 per cent, totaling 56,050,000 messages.

General of Ohio is headquartered in Marion, and Northern Ohio Telephone Co., Bellevue. The companies serve almost 40 per cent of Ohio's land area.

Safeguard System Faces Senate Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial Safeguard anti-missile system has easily survived its last challenge in the House but faces a stiffer final hurdle next week in the Senate.

An effort by House critics to knock Safeguard's $345 million deployment money out of the $70 billion defense appropriation

Monday in hopes of a U.S. - Soviet disarmament agreement was defeated 25 to 78.

Expected Senate approval of the money would clear the way for deployment of initial Safeguard antimissile sites in Montana and North Dakota next year.

Japan Welcomes Nixon Plan To Ban Chemical Weapons

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese newspapers say they welcome President Nixon's announcement that the U.S. is unilaterally banning offensive biological weapons and some chemical weapons. But Japan's biggest paper feels the ban does not go far enough.

Rhodes Plans Junket
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes will leave here Thursday to attend the winter Republican Governors' Conference at Hot Springs, Ark.

"We cannot but feel dissatisfied with the latest statement," said Asahi. It said the announcement "recognizes research on defensive measures" and "this is liable to leave the ban half done, because research on defensive means will naturally be accompanied by research on offensive means." Asahi speculated that the announcement may have been prompted by disclosure of the alleged massacre of South Vietnamese civilians by American soldiers at My Lai.

"The statement was announced," Asahi said, "just when the incident of the massacre... was called to account. Partly for this reason, even some doubts have appeared to the effect that the statement may only be aimed at political effects." The newspapers Sankei and Tokyo Shimbun welcomed the announcement without reservation. Sankei said it was "a courageous decision," and Tokyo Shimbun said it represents "great courage on the part of the United States" because it was done unilaterally.

Several European newspapers commented on My Lai. The London Evening Standard's Washington correspondent, Jeremy Campbell, wrote that it "made plain the central paradox of this appalling struggle, that a war for the finest of political ends has been waged with the crudest of military means, and has finally brutalized all who took part in it."

"Accusers quickly step forward, especially those who haven't been asked," said Frankfurt's Frankfurter Allgemeine. "American war crimes trials are known to be severe. The deep moral crisis of the American people calls for respect and sympathy."

Roses 100 Years Old

CENTRAL CITY, Colo. (AP) — Yellow roses that bloom in Central City are survivors of the bushes that gold miners brought with them from Cornwall more than 100 years ago.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

Nationwide Raps Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Nationwide Insurance Co. has labeled "ridiculous" a union official's statement that the firm does not give a true picture of its profits.

The company said Nationwide did $365 million worth of insurance business in 1968, and that its total countrywide profit, "including every cent of investment income, was $16.7 million... a profit margin of 4.6 per cent."

Warren Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio AFL-CIO, said at a news conference Tuesday that Ohio insurance companies do not give a true picture of their profits because they do not include money realized from stock market investments.

Repeating testimony he presented to a Congressional subcommittee in Washington last week, Smith said Nationwide had made a 21.5 per cent profit on mutual insurance in 1968 while its reported profit was only 4.6 per cent.

The Nationwide statement said that "what the Ohio AFL-CIO is trying to tack on as profit are unrealized capital gains, or the increased value of securities held by Nationwide. This is the wrong method of computing profit."

Issue A Warning Against Yuletide Confidence Men

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A warning against the increased activities of confidence operators during the Christmas holiday season was issued by Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown Tuesday.

Brown urged citizens to be on guard against fraudulent schemes and to "beware of free gifts" which may necessitate buying something at an inflated price.

He also urged dealing only with reputable merchants and persons who honor guarantees, and to resist making donations to telephone or door-to-door solicitors when the charity is unknown.

"The statement was announced," Asahi said, "just when the incident of the massacre . . . was called to account. Partly for this reason, even some doubts have appeared to the effect that the statement may only be aimed at political effects."

The newspapers Sankei and Tokyo Shimbun welcomed the announcement without reservation. Sankei said it was "a courageous decision," and Tokyo Shimbun said it represents "great courage on the part of the United States" because it was done unilaterally.

Several European newspapers commented on My Lai.

The London Evening Standard's Washington correspondent, Jeremy Campbell, wrote that it "made plain the central paradox of this appalling struggle, that a war for the finest of political ends has been waged with the crudest of military means, and has finally brutalized all who took part in it."

"Accusers quickly step forward, especially those who haven't been asked," said Frankfurt's Frankfurter Allgemeine. "American war crimes trials are known to be severe. The deep moral crisis of the American people calls for respect and sympathy."

Nationwide Raps Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Nationwide Insurance Co. has labeled "ridiculous" a union official's statement that the firm does not give a true picture of its profits.

The company said Nationwide did $365 million worth of insurance business in 1968, and that its total countrywide profit, "including every cent of investment income, was $16.7 million . . . a profit margin of 4.6 per cent."

Warren Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio AFL-CIO, said at a news conference Tuesday that Ohio insurance companies do not give a true picture of their profits because they do not include money realized from stock market investments.

Repeating testimony he presented to a Congressional subcommittee in Washington last week, Smith said Nationwide had made a 21.5 per cent profit on mutual insurance in 1968 while its reported profit was only 4.6 per cent.

The Nationwide statement said that "what the Ohio AFL-CIO is trying to tack on as profit are unrealized capital gains, or the increased value of securities held by Nationwide. This is the wrong method of computing profit."

Issue A Warning Against Yuletide Confidence Men

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A warning against the increased activities of confidence operators during the Christmas holiday season was issued by Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown Tuesday.

Brown urged citizens to be on guard against fraudulent schemes and to "beware of free gifts" which may necessitate buying something at an inflated price.

He also urged dealing only with reputable merchants and persons who honor guarantees, and to resist making donations to telephone or door-to-door solicitors when the charity is unknown.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Don't Seek Compassion, Go On A Diet

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here, drinking my eighth cup of coffee and feeling very depressed. I need someone to talk to so I am writing to you.

Three weeks ago I lost my job, and since then I've been all over Chicago looking for work, but I haven't had any luck.

I see a sign in the window saying HELP WANTED so I go inside and the receptionist takes one look at me and says, "Sorry, we aren't hiring right now."

I know why I get turned down without even an interview. I AM FAT!

Abby, can't people be a little kinder and just let me fill out the application blank? Then at least I'd feel like I was getting some place.

Just because a woman is fat doesn't mean she can't work. In fact, a fat person would probably work twice as hard just to prove she can produce.

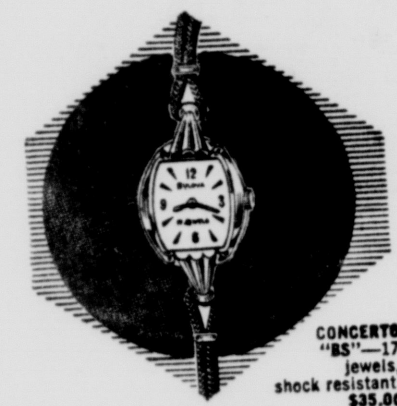

Well, Abby, I'm off again, looking for a job. I honestly feel a little better being able to tell this to somebody. Thanks for listening.

YOUR FAT FRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: A "friend" does more than listen. He speaks out when there is something his friend needs to hear.

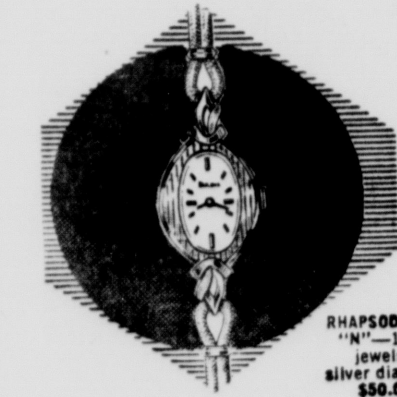

Feeling sorry for yourself won't land you a job. And don't expect some kind-hearted soul to put you on his payroll out of charity for the obese. Face it, most fat women are not as attractive as their normal sisters. (And they're not as healthy either.) They may be "jollier" or better sports because they know they are "Number Two" and must try harder.

the part of others. See your doctor, and get on a diet. And if you can't do it alone, get in touch with TOPS or WEIGHT WATCHERS.

(P.S.: If your obesity is due to a glandular disorder or a condition which you are helpless to control, forgive me, this letter is not for you.)

DEAR ABBY: Helen (not her real name) and I have been married for 14 years and have five children. We are both 36 years old. A while ago Helen joined a GROUP THERAPY group. (You know, people just sit around and talk about their problems.) Well, Helen is the only married person in the group.

One evening a fellow from the group picked Helen up and drove her to one of these meetings. He brought her home at 1:30 a.m. Helen said they stopped for a cocktail on the way home. Another time Helen accepted a dinner invitation with another man from the group.

She says she is innocent of any wrong doing. I believe her, but I feel her conduct is a potential threat to our marriage. Am I wrong to object?

OLD FASHIONED
DEAR OLD FASHIONED: No. Every group therapy group has a "therapist." Talk to the therapist and ask him how you should handle this problem.

DEAR ABBY: For years I have been driving four neighbor girls and my daughter to school every day. I decided not to join a car pool because I figure as long as I am driving anyway I may as well take a car full. Incidentally, we have a nice new car with six seat belts and I am dependable as a "clock."

We've lived in this neighborhood for many years and I know all the parents, but I don't see them socially. Of course all the mothers know that I chauffeur their children every morning because I pick them up at their doors.

Now I don't want a medal or anything, but when I meet one of the mothers in the market or at PTA, not ONE mother has ever said "thank you" to me.

If parents are so thoughtless about showing their appreciation for a good deed, is it any wonder that these kids think the world owes them a living?

This has been on my mind for a long time, and if you print this, it may wake up a few mothers. But please don't use my name or location.

Santa and the DUMBBELL

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: The travelers are marooned on a desert island. A family of ghosts tells them they can get to Santa Land if Booby Bobby wishes hard enough.

CHAPTER EIGHT AVALANCHE!

POOR Booby Bobby! He was so intent on using all his heart and all his might to make his wish come true that the words got mixed up in his head. Instead of wishing to be in Santa Land he wished to be in Snow Land which is not the same thing at all.

When he opened his eyes and looked around he found himself at the top of a mountain of snow but there was not a sign of Santa Land.

"Everyone is right," he said wretchedly. "I am a dumbbell." Stanley the Ghost and the Princess, who found themselves sitting beside him, tried to reassure him.

"Santa Land can't be too far off," said Stanley. "We know Santa Land has snow and this must be most of the snow in the world."

"I love snow," put in the Princess cheerfully, though she was shivering quite badly. "I could try wishing again," said Booby Bobby.

"No," said the Ghost. "One wish is enough to spend on this trip. Besides, it is probably true that only one such wish works in a lifetime."

"What shall we do now?" asked the Princess in a small voice, shivering more than ever. "Walk," said the Ghost. "After all, it's all down hill."

Now mountains in winter time are very tricky. One minute it is sunny and the next minute a cloud drops down and you can't see at all. When Booby Bobby and the Ghost and the Princess started down they could see the bottom of the mountain quite clearly. It seemed to be at a reasonable distance. But the snow was soft. They sank to their hips at every step. After three hours they had hardly made any progress. The bottom of the mountain was as far off as ever.

Then they couldn't even see the bottom or even their hands in front of their faces. A white cloud had descended. They were lost in a fog.

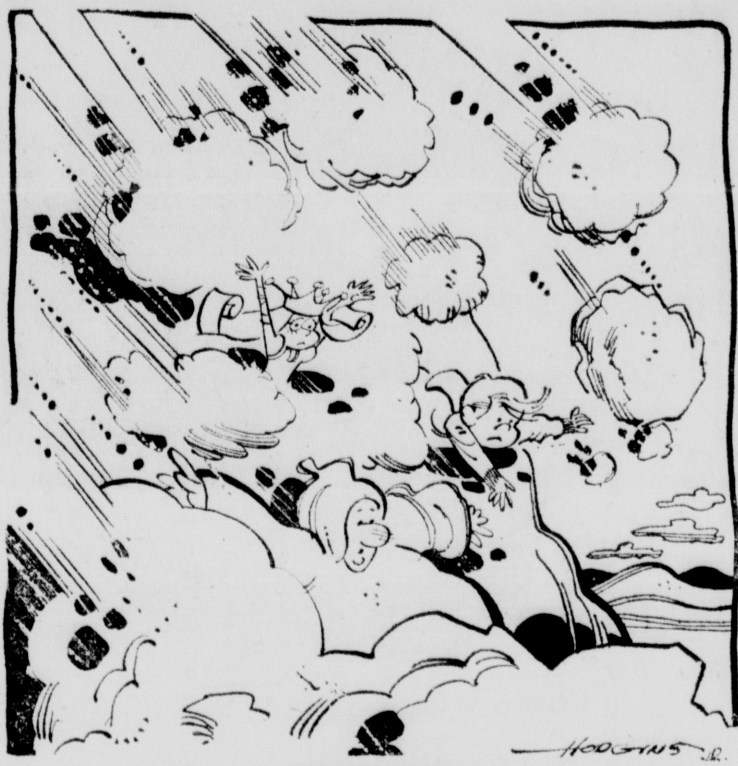

The Princess held Booby Bobby's hand and Booby Bobby held Stanley's trailing sheets. The Ghost shouted at the top of his voice, "Follow me! Follow me!"

This was a mistake, for his voice, echoing up and down the mountain, loosened a cliff of overhanging snow. There was a sudden CLAP! and a far-off rumbling getting louder and louder until it was a booming, thundering, roaring coming down the mountain.

The Ghost screamed, "Avalanche!" Booby Bobby clung to the Princess's hand. He lost hold of Stanley's sheet, fell and grabbed his ankle. Just in time! The avalanche picked them up and hurled them head over heels, somersaulting, topsyturvy, down the mountain in a river of snow.

When they came to a stop they were buried under the snow. The Puppet Princess's nose had broken off. Stanley's sheets were ripped from his head. Booby Bobby had two black eyes. But they were still together.

They began to tunnel out of the snow but they were so upside down they couldn't tell whether they were going up or down or sideways. They decided each would tunnel in a different direction. One would have to be right.

"Avalanche!"

After hours of digging, Booby Bobby's head broke above the ground. He leaned over his tunnel and shouted, "Come this way! I'm out."

He sat back to wait for the others. As he sank back, he felt an awful twinge and the jaws of some fearful creature locked around his seat.

Tomorrow: The Strange Beast

Collegians Get Things Done

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP)—Three days of fund raising at Eastern Mennonite College is over.

The student-faculty drive to raise money for a library netted $105,000 by late Monday night and sponsors said more receipts from an auction and mailed donations could be expected.

"We will reach our immediate goal," said Dr. Myron S. Augsburg, college president. The board of trustees set a goal for $400,000 for a start on the $1.4 million library.

Classes were suspended this morning so the weary student body could attend the meeting and hear the anticipated announcement that the library plans were given a green light.

Pandemonium erupted among the 4,000 persons attending the auction on campus Monday night when a crepe paper thermometer on the gymnasium wall showed the $100,000 figure had been topped.

The auction provided only a fraction of the total funds obtained during the drive.

Throughout the weekend the 950 students fanned across this Shenandoah Valley town offering to work at any kind of job and seeking donations from the townsfolk.

One man paid $1,000 to have wood chopped. Others okayed $200 car wash and wax jobs. Coeds became housemaids or worked throughout the weekend in the college's home economics kitchens baking hundreds of pies and cakes for the auction.

Thousands of items were donated for the auction. Pennsylvania Dutch foods were prepared for sale by local Mennonite church women. A huge shipment of Swiss Cheese came from donors in Ohio. Over 200 hams were sent here by the Mennonite community in Lancaster, Pa.

Missionaries and faculty members donated artifacts from around the world.

One music professor at the college donated a handmade 1893 cello and tried to buy it back at the auction. He was outbid at $350 by a group of students. They promptly returned it to him.

Newark Considers Post-Holiday School Vacation

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Closing of Newark schools for four weeks in January and February because of financial difficulties is under consideration by the Newark Board of Education.

The step would be taken to reduce the amount of borrowing necessary to keep schools operating until the end of the current school year.

School Supt. Loren Briggs in a report to the board said the schools will have to borrow a total of $537,171 more than income by the end of August to keep the schools open for the remainder of the school year.

The board agreed to meet Dec. 31 to make a decision on the proposed four-week closing. Classes would be rescheduled to make up for the lost time if the schools are closed.

SAC Apparently Loses Bid For Heftier Atom Warhead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Strategic Air Command apparently has lost its bid for a heftier nuclear missile warhead with enough punch to knock out underground enemy missile sites and other "hardened" targets.

But Air Force sources suggested the idea still is alive, claiming SAC has been told the concept needs more study.

The basis of Seamans' action was not entirely clear, although some Pentagon officials acknowledged money was a factor.

Also figuring in the decision could have been the possible disruptive effect of such a project on Strategic Arms Limitations Talks with the Soviet Union.

The issue surfaced with publication of recent secret testimony by Gen. John D. Ryan, Air Force chief of staff and a former SAC commander.

In a discussion of U.S. multiple warheads, Ryan told the Issue Warrants For 5 Persons At Riot Trial

CHICAGO (AP)—Arrest warrants were issued Tuesday for five persons, including four Ohioans, who failed to appear in Criminal Court here on charges growing out of October street violence promoted by the Students for a Democratic Society.

Judge Joseph Power issued warrants on charges of aggravated battery, resisting arrest and mob action.

The five are Richard H. Hudson, 23, Columbus; Jeffery Powell, 19, Stow; Matthew J. Flanagan, 19, Bedford Heights; Mark G. Lenc, 23, Cleveland and Clifford Buran, 19, Chicago.

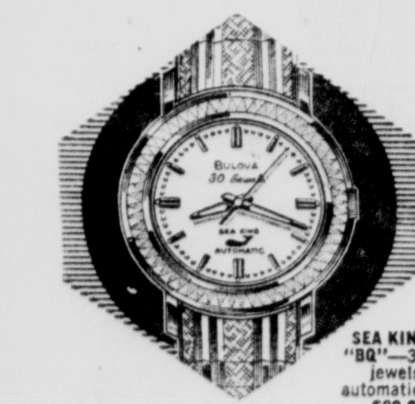

Another 22 persons arrested in the October clashes pleaded innocent to various charges and had their cases continued.

Pentagon Pulls B52 Units From Vietnam War Zone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is pulling the equivalent of two squadrons of B52 bombers out of the air war in Southeast Asia.

According to Air Force officials, 30 B52 squadrons will be returned to the United States to rejoin the strategic bomber force or to be used in training assignments.

The removal comes at a time when North Vietnam is stepping up infiltration into South Vietnam at a rate tentatively estimated at about 20,000 men a month.

Infiltration routes have been a prime target of the B52s.

The action leaves the United States with three B52 squadrons in Southeast Asia, plus dozens of smaller fighter-bombers that can be used in the air war.

Defense spokesmen say the cutback reflects in part a Pentagon decision earlier this year to scale down the big bomber missions as a means of saving money.

Each B52 flight costs about $50,000.

The pullout also appeared possible in view of the lowered enemy activity just prior to the upsurge in infiltration of the last few weeks.

According to Pentagon officials, Army Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, originally frowned upon giving up some of the B52 missions, which he considered one of the big weapons in the war.

But Abrams went along with the reduction.

The Pentagon originally budgeted for 1,800 B52 sorties per month. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird decided last spring, however, that figure could be reduced to 1,600.

Actually, the average rate has gone lower than 1,600 sorties in recent weeks, according to Pentagon sources.

Laird briefly mentioned the two squadron reduction Thursday during an appearance before a Senate subcommittee on defense appropriations.

The defense chief said the three remaining full B52 squadrons provides 45 to 60 planes to wield against the North Viet-names in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Reports from Saigon on Monday indicated as many as 400 American planes daily were attacking the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos. This indicated to Pentagon observers that tactical air power to a large extent was taking up the slack created by the ordered reduction in B52 sorties.

Cincy Bridge Plans Expected

CINCINNATI (AP) — The critical bridge problem in Cincinnati may look brighter in a few weeks when Kentucky officials are expected to present some definite plans, Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes said in Cincinnati Tuesday.

Ohio Highway Director P. E. Masheter, here with Rhodes to dedicate sections of Int. 275 and

Int. 71 just completed here, said it was his understanding that the Kentucky State Highway department will know exactly what is to be done about replacement of the C&O bridge between Cincinnati and Covington "soon after the first of the year."

The bridge was ordered closed last summer because of structural deterioration.

Difficult Change

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP) — The cabinet has decided to switch this African monarchy's weights and measures from the British imperial to the metric system. The change will take place over a period of four to five years. Britain and South Africa, Swaziland's main markets, will be using the metric system in a few years' time.

Cincinnati Police Probe Murders

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati area police today were coping with their eighth and ninth murder case in the last 10 days.

In suburban Hamilton County, police returned Robert Bingham, 41, Buford, from the Brown County jail. He was arrested late Tuesday at a roadblock on the Brown-Highland county line in connection with the shooting death of his wife Virginia, 47, in the parking lot of the Cherry Grove Shopping Center in Hamilton County.

In Cincinnati, Hamilton County Coroner Frank Cleveland said the death of Miss Kathryn Cooper, 81, found murdered in her home in the Oakley section Monday, was caused by shock as a result of a vicious beating with parts of a broken chair.

Court Sets Rules For 'Line-Up'

LONDON (AP) — A man suspected of crime in Britain must not "stand out" on being put on a police identification parade — by being unshaven, for example. The Home Office issued this order to police in a review of procedure at identification parades.

In a discussion of U.S. multiple warheads, Ryan told the House defense appropriations subcommittee:

"We have a program we are pushing to increase the yield of our warheads and decrease the circular error probably so that we have what we call a hard target kill which we do not have in the inventory at the present time."

The word "yield" refers to the explosive power of a nuclear weapon. The "circular error probable" — CEP — is a measure of a weapon's accuracy — the smaller the circle, the more accurate the warhead.

Ryan testified behind closed doors in October. Some time after that, Pentagon officials said, the SAC proposal was turned down.

Expect John Glenn To Run For Young's Senate Post

Ohio Bell 'Hurt' By Rate Delay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Bell Telephone Co. officials expressed disappointment Tuesday over the delay in hearings on the company's proposed rate hike.

The Public Utilities Commission Tuesday set Feb. 10 as the date for hearings to begin.

Joseph D. Reed, Ohio Bell assistant vice president, said the delay "comes at a time when, on the one hand, earnings continue to decline while, at the same time, demands for service are growing rapidly."

Ohio Soldier Dies In Viet War Zone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reported Tuesday that Army Spec 4 Daniel A. Peters of Cleveland, Ohio, has died in Vietnam not as a result of hostile action.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Asphered J. Peters of 4033 E. 55th St.

Chicago Still Tough

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago—forever trying to get rid of the violent image it picked up in the days of gangster Al Capone—has had 655 murders so far this year, police report.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former astronaut John Glenn is expected to officially enter the U.S. Senate race Thursday and pave the way for rough and tumble primary election fights in both major parties.

Glenn, 48, the one-time Lind-

OHIO CASH GRAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No. 2 red wheat mostly 1-3 higher 1.31-1.34, mostly 1.32-1.34; No. 2 yellow corn mostly unchanged 1.04-1.10, mostly 1.06-1.09; No. 2 oats mostly unchanged .56-63, mostly .57-60; soybeans unchanged to 2 higher 2.22-2.34, mostly 2.22-2.30.

bergh of America's space program, has scheduled a 9 a. m. news conference and an announcement that he will plunge into the Democratic primary is anticipated.

Glenn left an executive position at Royal Crown International recently and moved from New York City to Columbus to prepare for the campaign. He is a native of Ohio and maintains a voting residence at New Concord.

His probable opponent in the May 5 primary is Howard Metzenbaum, a former state legislator who has indicated he will be a candidate for the office. Metzenbaum twice successfully managed the campaigns of Sen. Stephen Young, 80, who is retiring because of his age.

Glenn earned the political wrath of Young in 1964 when he announced as a primary candidate against the crusty Ohio Democrat.

Glenn withdrew from the race after a bathroom fall left him with an ear injury. Young, until recently, had predicted Glenn would not run.

Young said Glenn once inquired of the Republican party about being a GOP candidate. Young said Glenn voted for Nixon in the 1960 Kennedy-Nixon presidential campaign.

Metzenbaum, a wealthy Cleveland attorney, has the respect of many party professionals. Several of them refer to Glenn as a "carpetbagger," contending he hasn't lived in Ohio since his days at Muskingum College.

The Republican party already has lined up a name card of Senate primary candidates with Gov. James A. Rhodes and Rep. Robert Taft Jr. sharing the spotlight.

Rhodes, 60, is a two-term governor who by law cannot succeed himself. Taft, 52, has served three consecutive terms in Congress from Ohio's 1st District.

The two Republicans currently are embroiled in an argument over the format of proposed televised debates. No agreement has yet been reached.

American communities stage annual holidays to honor such diverse things as crawfish, whales, walrus, raisins, dates, raspberries, covered bridges, the poke plant, daffodils, pumpkins and sauerkraut.

Bonn, Moscow To Talk

MOSCOW (AP) — West Germany and the Soviet Union will meet again shortly to continue their talks on a formal agreement to renounce the use of force against each other, a West German spokesman said after the opening meeting Monday. However, no date was set.

Youth Given Life For Slaying Guard

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Merlin Parent sentenced Roger Craft, 16, Marion, to life imprisonment Tuesday after the youth pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

Craft was accused of shooting to death Charles Marion, a security guard at the Fairfield School for Boys here, after he and another youth escaped.

THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT FLORIDA ROCK LOBSTERS

- CLAWLESS . . . These lobsters, like the African Rock Lobster, do not have claws. You are not paying for the heavy thick claws that sometimes weigh more than the body of a Maine Lobster.
- MORE MEAT . . . Florida Rock Lobsters yield more edible meat per pound of lobster, by approximately 12%, than Maine Lobsters.
- JUST COOKED FLAVOR . . . These lobsters are freshly caught in traps on the rocky ocean floor - cooked in sanitary U.S. Gov't approved plant, split, thoroughly cleaned and flash frozen at -70 degrees F. in air circulating at 60 miles per hour to retain that fresh lobster flavor.
- MULTIPLE USES . . . Just heat in the oven, serve in Newberg, Thermidor, or Cardinal dishes. Stuff with Shrimp, Crab Meat, Whipped Avocado or Potatoes, in a cold tangy salad or create your own new dish.
- AMPLE SERVING . . . An 8 to 12 oz. One-Half of a Florida Lobster stuffed is an ample serving for most people.

Municipalities Worst Offenders, Ohio's Pollution Fighters Find

'Feelthy Peectures'? Not In Gay Paree!

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — With a card sharper's flashing hands, the little man outside Notre Dame flicks open two small packets. The eye caught only a second's glimpse at what looked like intertwined flesh. "Deerty peectures," he says.
If a sale goes through, at $2 a packet, he ducks quickly into one of the cafes across the street from the cathedral. He is selling as pornographic photos what are actually just reproductions of nudes from the Louvre Museum. It doesn't make for happy customers.
"You think I'm crazy, selling real porno?" the man who calls himself Theodore said in the cafe while heating up his hands over a hot rum. "First I wouldn't even know where to get the real stuff. Second, I'd get three months for selling it. The cops don't fool around, kid."
Yes, this is Paris, a dry island of propriety beyond the tide of flesh on the news stands and in the mails that has swept over the United States and Scandinavia.
The nudest skin-trade magazines on sale near Place Pissalle, come from places like Astoria, N.Y., and Burbank, Calif.
The titles are all in English, like "Blonde Babes" and "A Different Kind of Love." But sexual acts and complete nudity are not pictured. The prices run to $9 for a magazine, more than double the American price marked on the cover.
"After all," the news dealer explained when there was a complaint about the price, "this is the real thing, and imported from the United States!"
Ironically some of the pornographic books are pirated American editions of paperbacks published here during the freer 1940s and 1950s.

There are two explanations for France's distance from pornography.

One is that there is still a residue of official puritanism from the De Gaulle era, which tended to suppress anything that did not reflect the high moral tone the general wanted associated with France.

The people who explain the situation this way believe that France will gradually go back to its habits of centuries. They say this is already happening with a series of sexually oriented advertisements in major magazines.

The other explanation comes from Jean-Louis Giniere editor of Lui or Him, the men's magazine that is the country's largest.

Giniere says there is little pornography in France because basically there is little demand. He considers the French the West's least sexually frustrated people and the least likely to be excited by the prospect of pictures of other people making love.

"MASSACRE" — Lt. William Calley Jr., 26, looks calm as he appears at the Pentagon, Washington, where he is accused in the "massacre" of more than 100 civilians at Song My, South Vietnam.

Group Protests Nixon's Visit To New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Bands of young antiwar demonstrators marked President Nixon's visit to the city Tuesday night by surging through midtown streets breaking store windows and clashing with police.

Police arrested more than 60 men and women after small bands broke away from a crowd of 5,000 protesters to wreak havoc. One policeman was hit with a lead pipe and a high-ranking officer was struck in the face by a stone. Five other policemen and five civilians were injured.

President Nixon was in town to receive the Gold Medal of the National Football Foundation at a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The President entered the hotel by limousine and apparently did not see the protesters behind police barricades one block away.

About 50 supporters of Nixon staged a quiet demonstration near the hotel.

The mass of antiwar demonstrators gathered near the Waldorf about 6 p.m. One small group flew a Viet Cong flag, and others raised a red flag on a pole in front of a midtown bank.

The violence began when Police Inspector David Falek ordered patrolmen wielding clubs to form a wedge and "go in and secure that flapjole and get that flag down!"

Police charged forward knocking some youths to the ground, as protesters hurled stones, placards and pennies. Falek was hit in the mouth with a stone, but said he was not seriously injured. Another officer was led bleeding to a patrol car with a head injury.

A few minutes later, small groups charged west toward Fifth Avenue department stores, still open to accommodate Christmas shoppers. They smashed five windows in Saks Fifth Avenue and moved on to other stores, screaming antiwar and revolutionary slogans.

Save Every Payday At The SAVINGS Bank Member FDIC

es blamed the state when the polluted Cuyahoga River caught fire last June and damaged two railroad bridges. The Rhodes administration said the city was not meeting its anti-pollution responsibilities.

—The state filed suit last August against Rumpke Inc. of Cincinnati, the largest trash collector in Hamilton County, charging it was polluting Banklick Creek with waste runoff. A hearing will be held Dec. 15.

The suit followed a $3 million action against Rumpke by 22 residents who claimed Rumpke and eight industries were dumping two million pounds of garbage and industrial waste daily.

—There are no laws in Ohio banning owners of water craft which carry sinks, toilets and sanitary systems from dumping waste directly into Lake Erie or other boating area. Lake Erie serves as a public water supply for over three million persons.

—State wild life enforcement officers say many people, usually nonresidents, dump trash in Big Walnut Creek in Franklin County.

State officials say many communities, particularly small ones, don't have funds needed to build water treatment facilities to meet state water quality requirements.

—Toledo, the third ranking polluter of Lake Erie after Detroit and Cleveland, is a big polluter of the Maumee River.

Figures from the Water Pollution Control Board show that municipalities are by far the worst offenders.

Of the 438 permits issued to municipalities last year to dump waste into state waters 214 had, in the board's opinion, satisfactory treatment facilities, while 221, more than half, had facilities that required improvements.

Industries fared better. Of 624 companies issued permits, 406 had satisfactory treatment facilities, while 218, a little more than a third, had unsatisfactory treatment systems.

Since 1964, building freezes have been ordered for 30 municipalities. Nine have been rescinded after programs for improvements were accepted by the board.

"Where you have a lot of people and a lot of industry," says George Eagle, chief of the Ohio Bureau of Environmental Health, "that's where you have problems."

The responsibility apparently falls on many shoulders with most denying complete blame—including the state.

In September Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel warned Toledo it was in violation of federal water pollution standards, called for hearings in early October and threatened to go to court if satisfactory progress was not made in 180 days.

Toledo and state officials were taken by surprise.

The state and Toledo, with the vocal support of Gov. James A. Rhodes, accused the federal government of interfering in state affairs and noted Toledo was not violating existing state standards.

George Harlow, Lake Erie program director for the Federal Water Pollution Control Agency, says the matter is now under study in Washington where a ruling will be made.

Hickel, said Harlow, "made it quite clear that his recent enforcement action was not a one-shot burst for the short haul. This is just a beginning. We intend to continue the identification of polluters all over the nation followed by the enforcement of schedules for prompt cleanup and pollution elimination."

Harlow said "sloppy operations cause pollution." He added:

"We're going to get these problems solved once and for all —no more of this minor this and minor that so that we have a perpetual program. No one's program is perfect. I'd say Ohio does a pretty good job but there are certain areas that need improvement."

Toledo and state officials say the federal blast was politically motivated and uncalled for.

Ned Skelton, head of Toledo's non-profit, private corporation Clear Water Inc., maintained Hickel had "the wrong city, the wrong river basin and the wrong state" when he made his charges.

Noting that Toledo's citizens have already approved a $17 million bond issue to combat pollution, Skelton says Toledo has made more progress than any other Lake Erie city.

TOMORROW: How the state attempts to control water pollution.

6 Basic Factors Contribute To Water Pollution

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here are six basic factors which contribute to water pollution:

—Organic matter such as raw sewage which absorbs oxygen and suffocates plant and animal life.

—Inorganic matter such as other chemicals which create a chemical imbalance in the chlorines, oils, phenols and water.

—Bacteriological material from human and animal waste that encourages the growth of disease-causing organisms.

—Nutrients such as nitrogen and phosphorous which fertilize the water, accelerate plant growth and speed up the natural aging of lakes.

—Heat from water used for cooling, commonly called thermal pollution, which causes abnormally high temperatures in streams and lakes.

—Pesticides such as DDT, dieldrin and aldrin and other hydrocarbons.

GABORONE, BOTSWANA (AP) — Note the new spelling: it used to be Gaborones. Botswana's capital is only one of the 70 places in this independent black state whose names have been changed on the recommendation of a government commission. Lobatsi becomes Lobatse, Lake Dow is Lake Xau, Selebi-Phikwe is the new spelling of Selibe-Pikwe and Ootsi is now Ootse. The new spelling of Gaborone harks back to an African chief of the same name who lived there in the 1880s. White settlers named the area Gaborone's, then changed it to Gaborones.

$10 Million Check Given To Gallipolis

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP)—A $10 million check for the sale of bonds for a new medical center here was delivered Tuesday to city officials.

The bond issue, said to be the largest of its type in Ohio history, involved 2,000 bonds of $5,000 face value.

Charles J. Kilroy of McDonald & Co., Cleveland, managing underwriter of the group which distributed the bonds, delivered the check to Gallipolis City Manager D. Kenneth Morgan.

The money will be used with federal grants and other funds to build a $20 million medical center on the outskirts of this Ohio River town of 9,000 residents.

The 265 - bed facility, to be completed in January 1972, is expected to serve 20 counties in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

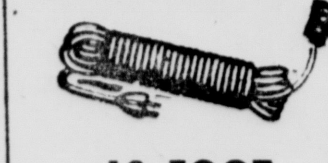

The medical complex will be leased to the Holzer Hospital Foundation and eventually will have a 500-bed capacity, which would make it the largest southern Ohio hospital outside Columbus or Cincinnati.

There were 41 present at the United Methodist Sunday School service followed. The MYF enjoyed a bowling party Sunday afternoon.

The United Methodist WSCS held their December meeting Wednesday evening in the church basement with ten members present. The president, Mrs. George Kern opened the meeting with a poem, "The Priceless Gift of Christmas" by Helen Steiner Rice. The secretary being absent no report was given. The treasurer, Mrs. Francis Furniss gave the financial report and the group voted a contribution to the current expenses. A "Thank You" note was read from Mrs. Virginia Packer for our part in the Missionary program held earlier this year.

Plans were made to serve a stock sale dinner Dec. 10 at the Bowling Stockyard and members were urged to help. Rev. Wright was present and gave a few well chosen remarks and announced that the Christmas Program will be held Dec. 22nd at the church and urged members to attend. A card of cheer was signed to be sent to Mrs. Elta Neff. The program, "The Suburban Church and the Inner City" was ably presented by Mrs. Kern and discussed by the group. At the close of the meeting seasonal refreshments were served by Mrs. Francis Furniss and Miss Laura Long.

The Five Points WCTU will meet 2 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Loring Stoeck. This will feature the Christmas Party and gift exchange. All members are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Turney Sheets were Monday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and son Harold. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dawson were their Tuesday evening guests and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ruff Jr. and son Todd were Thursday evening guests. Harold is making a satisfactory recovery from his recent operation, and wishes to "Thank" all who sent cards of cheer and for their visits and gifts while he was in the hospital and since his return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roberts of near London were Saturday dinner guests of Mrs. Shirley Anderson and Mrs. William Parker and children David, Peggy and Patty of Columbus and Miss Dianne Haines were her Sunday dinner guests.

Mrs. Shirley Anderson was the Wednesday luncheon guest of Mrs. Joe Roberts at the Open Gate Garden Club Luncheon which was held in Springfield.

Areas Win More Time On Pollution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board has continued until Feb. 10 action on Cleveland's water pollution abatement program.

During the 60-day extension granted Tuesday, Cleveland is expected to complete rate negotiations with suburbs which will participate in the city's anti-pollution master plan.

Spokesmen for the city told the board that no major construction steps can be taken until these negotiations are concluded.

The master plan, submitted to the board by the city last October, calls for an all-inclusive system that will take in much of the area surrounding Cleveland.

In other action, the board approved a program submitted by the city of Euclid for construction of sewage treatment and collection facilities.

The board continued its consideration of sewage treatment programs in Avon, Olmsted Falls, Independence, Bellair, Vectonia and Mineral City and in the counties of Allen and Hocking.

Apollo Spacemen To Get Medals Offered In 1889

PARIS (AP) — Neil A. Armstrong, the first man to walk on the moon, and his Apollo 11 companions have won gold medals offered in 1889 for the first "to find a means of communications with a heavenly body—Mars excluded."

The medals of the Prix Pierre Guzman were given Monday to the U.S. Embassy scientific attaché, Edgar First, for Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

The medal award was founded by Mrs. Anna Emile Guzman, who said at the time she excluded Mars "because that planet appears to be sufficiently well known."

Nixon Won't Attend College Bowl Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon, who created a temporary... among other contenders by naming Texas the No. 1 college football team, probably will play it safe and not attend any of the bowl games.

This was the word of associates who accompanied the chief executive to New York Tuesday night to receive the National Football Foundation's Gold Medal Award for his contributions to the sport.

"The President probably will be impartial and stay at home, juggling the television dials," a friend said today. "He hasn't said positively yet, because he loves football so much."

"But while he was sitting on the dais, people kept coming by and asking him what bowl he was going to. A Penn State man asked if he would be at the Orange Bowl. He said, 'no.' Another asked about the Sugar Bowl and another the Cotton Bowl.

They got the same response. "If he happens to be on the West Coast at the time, he might take in the Rose Bowl, but this is very doubtful."

The President made reference to the No. 1 controversy in an off-the-cuff talk to more than 1,000 $100-a-plate guests at the annual awards dinner of the Foundation and Hall of Fame.

He said at one time, apparently after receiving protests from supporters of unbeaten Penn State, he had considered suggesting a college Super Bowl after the Jan. 1 games to determine a true national champion.

"I figured I was in deep enough trouble already, so I dropped it," he added.

The Associated Press decided to hold its poll determining the national champion after New Year's Day games sending Texas against Notre Dame, Penn State against Missouri, Arkansas against Mississippi and Southern California against Michigan.

The President flew in especially for the award and appeared to relish the 3½ hours of fraternization with the great and near great of the game. He was greeted by lines of anti-war demonstrators who marched outside the midtown hotel.

"I thought Texas deserved to be No. 1, not because of that second touchdown—a great gamble," Nixon said, "but because, after the first touchdown, it went for the two-point conversion."

"This took courage. In the 100th year of football and nearly the 200th year of our nation's anniversary, Texas played to win and set an example for all of us."

Receiving the MacArthur Bowl as the Foundation's No. 1 team, Coach Darrell Royal of Texas turned to the President and said:

"Mr. President, we'll try like hell to make you look good."

BUSINESS—NOT AS USUAL—Something different in ventures for two of New York's big sports heroes, Joe Namath (left) and Mickey Mantle, is given an official opening in New York as the two unveil their employment agency venture, "Mantle Men and Namath Girls, Inc." Gals are customers.

County Schools Have Full Slate

The Pickaway County high schools have a full slate this weekend.

Teays Valley hosts Franklin Heights Friday and is at Grove City on Saturday.

Westfall travels to East Clinton Friday and to Hamilton Twp. Saturday.

Logan Elm is idle Friday. On Saturday they host Southeastern.

The Teays Valley-Franklin Heights contest is the only league game.

Both members of the Metropolitan League, the Vikings need a win to stay in contention for the conference title. Bob Hoover's quintet is 1-1 in the league and has a 5-1 overall mark.

The Saturday game with Grove City's Greyhounds promises to be no breather for the Vikings. Coached by the canny Herb Russell, Grove City is one of the powers in the Mid Eight League this year.

Russell, who started his coaching career at Stoutsville High School, once had a district championship team at Grove City with the tallest starter only 6-foot-2. He terms this year's team one of the best he has had at Grove City.

The Westfall-East Clinton tilt was scheduled by Mustang Coach Paul Hoskins when Amanda-Clearcreek was forced to cancel because of a league conflict. The game will be played in the New Vienna Elementary School gymnasium in Clinton County.

Circleville High School Coach John Lawhorn was a coach at East Clinton last year. Westfall has a 2-3 record this season and could improve it this weekend.

Doug Sanders Below Top 60 On Golf Tour

MIAMI (AP) — Doug Sanders may have to drag himself out of bed, pull on those dapper clothes and battle a brigade of hungry kids for tournament berths on the 1970 pro golf tour.

Hardened veterans like Sanders and fuzzy chinned kids alike dread those Monday qualifiers. Usually it's 220 golfers firing 18 holes for 10 or 12 tournament spots.

Sanders, the graying winner of $549,086 as a pro, lost his automatic exemption by failing to make the top 60 money winners on the recently completed 1969 trek of the Professional Golfers Association.

The slim Georgian's $27,000 earnings dropped him well below the $28,100 of Steve Spray, who slipped by as No. 60 man among those who can sleep late on Mondays.

"It's not as bad as it seems," Sanders said. "I'll admit I don't enjoy the situation. It's a matter of pride."

Dapper Doug can enter 12 tour events where he has been a champion and has a lifetime exemption. Three other times he will be eligible for special sponsor invitations.

"I also finished in the top 25 in about a dozen tournaments," he said. "so I'm all set for those. And, as long as I make the 36-hole cutdowns I will be an automatic entry for the next event along the road."

Despite all those loopholes, Sanders wasn't happy about being among the warriors.

But he has company in being a nonexempt player. Veterans Billy Maxwell, Tommy Jacobs, Jacky Cupit, Mason Rudolph and Al Balding were among those who missed the top 60. So did youngsters Ron Cerrudo, Lou Graham, Bobby Cole, Bob Dickson and Mike Hill.

Ohio Teams In Clashes On Hardwood

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"We had to take the ball game to them on the boards," said Dayton basketball Coach Don Donohoe in explaining how his Flyers upset 11th-ranked Louisville, 72-56, Tuesday night.

"We thought there was no way we could run them out of their own park, but we did!" declared the exuberant coach.

The loss snapped a 25-game home-court winning streak for the Cardinals.

In other college basketball games involving Ohio teams Tuesday night, Kenyon outscored Wooster 118-112, Marietta socked Muskingum 97-67, John Carroll edged Western Reserve 70-67 and Oberlin beat Case 65-47.

Kenyon's little John Rinka snapped two Ohio Conference records with 27 field goals and 69 total points in the high-scoring contest with Wooster. Rinka twice had scored 55 points for the old league mark. The previous field goal record was 22.

Tom Brewer had 28 points and Dave Leatherman 19 to lead Marietta to its second Ohio Conference win against no losses.

Tiger Grapplers Win First Meet By 26-23 Margin

Circleville High School opened their 1969-70 wrestling season with a win over Columbus Central 26-23 at the Tigers gym.

"I was very well pleased with our strong showing," Coach Brent Bell stated "and especially pleased with the showing of Jeff Harr, Mark Ebert, Doug Good, Craig Dresbach, John Myers and Bill Fowler."

"We are a long way from district champions," Coach Bell offered, "but if they keep improving as rapidly as they have so far, they could develop into a real power in the central district."

Lynch of Central won by forfeit in the new 98-pound division as Circleville doesn't have a man in that division.

Duquesne, Louisville Cage Losers

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Duquesne traveled hundreds of miles to get upset... but Louisville never had to leave home.

Seventh-ranked Duquesne and 11th-ranked Louisville were among college basketball victims on Terrible Tuesday. Nebraska, hosting Duquesne at Lincoln, whacked the Dukes 82-77 and Dayton decked Louisville 72-56 in the Cardinals' nest.

The beatings of the ranked teams Tuesday night continued an upset trend since the season's opening gun last week.

South Carolina, the nation's No. 1-ranked team in pre-season polls was among the more noticeable victims—losing to Tennessee 55-54 last Saturday night. Purdue, Marquette, Colorado and St. John's of New York have been other top-ranked victims.

The unranked Cornhuskers, winning their first four games since 1919, used a strong defense and 26 points from the free throw line to undermine Duquesne.

Marvin Stewart scored 18 points for Nebraska and LeRoy Chalk added 17. Duquesne lost high scorer Mickey Davis, who had 17 points, and Barry Nelson, on fouls.

Dayton took charge of the tempo of the game, forcing Louisville to play slowed-down basketball, as the Flyers nailed the Cardinals.

Dayton trailed 29-28 at the half, but behind the rebounding of Ken May and George Janky, the Flyers pulled ahead early in the second half with their stall-ball tactics.

Dayton took the lead for good at 36-35 on a 12-foot jump shot by guard Jerry Gottschall with about 17 minutes left in the game.

Ranked teams followed form in the night's other contests as ninth-ranked Tennessee defeated Centenary 66-62, 14th-ranked Purdue smothered Butler 100-64 and 18th-ranked Jacksonville annihilated Mercer 100-64.

Deadly Don Johnson fired in 26 points, all from long range, as the Volunteers outdueled Centenary. Tennessee sprinted to an early 28-17 lead and appeared to be enroute to an easy victory when the scrappy visitors fought back to within 33-31 at the half. Then Johnson's second half baskets helped close the door on Centenary.

Purdue whipped Butler despite the loss of Rick Mount. The high-scoring star left the game with about seven minutes remaining in the first half with a bruised knee after scoring 12 points.

Seven-foot Artis Gilmore scored 34 points to lead Jacksonville over Mercer. Mercer led the first ten minutes, but Jacksonville moved ahead 25-24 nine minutes before the half and went on to dominate the game.

Louisiana State, behind Pistol Pete Maravich's 43 points, bombed Loyola of New Orleans 100-87.

Washington And Washington Clash In Vikings-49ers Tilt

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — It will be Gene Washington vs. Gene Washington in Sunday's Minnesota Vikings-San Francisco 49ers National Football League game.

The Vikings are worried about stopping Washington. The 49ers are worried about Washington.

Washington catches passes for both clubs. He leads both teams in pass receiving. He was a first round draft choice for both teams.

The 49er press books says of Washington, "Speed and great hands." Minnesota's guide says, "excellent speed and good hands."

Yes, there are two Gene Washingtons and they will be wearing different uniforms in the 1 p.m. (CST) game at Metropolitan Stadium. Since both play offense, it's likely that the only time they will be on the field at the same time is during pre-game warmups.

Now, you can tell them apart if it doesn't snow.

It's the second time this season that a Vikings' receiver will meet a namesake on an opposing team.

The Purple's John Henderson outperformed Pittsburgh's Jon Henderson in Minnesota's 52-14 triumph Nov. 23 by catching three more passes than the Steeler receiver.

There is one big difference. Minnesota's Washington plays for an 11-1 team. The 49er's Gene is with a 3-7-2 club.

The Viking will be wearing No. 84. The 49er's numerals are 18.

Dickie Post Tops AFL In Yardage

NEW YORK (AP) — San Diego's Dickie Post, driving for his first American Football League rushing title, leads two-time winner Jim Nance of Boston by 28 yards going into the final weekend of the regular season.

Post has gained 767 yards on the ground, to 739 for Nance, according to weekly AFL figures released today, while four other ground gainers are within 106 yards of the lead.

Matt Snell of New York, 691, Floyd Little of Denver, 677, O.J. Simpson of Buffalo, 670, and Mike Garrett of Kansas City, 670, each has an outside shot of overtaking Post and Nance.

Even tighter, however, is the scoring race, with New York's Jim Turner holding a one-point edge over Jan Stenerud of Kansas City, who set a pro record of 16 consecutive field goals without a miss last Sunday by booting five against Buffalo.

Turner has 120 points on 30 field goals and as many extra point kicks. Stenerud has booted 27 field goals and converted after 38 Kansas City touchdowns.

Oakland's Daryle Lamonica leads the passing derby with 210 completions for 3,114 yards and 33 touchdowns—three short of the pro season mark shared by George Blanda and Y.A. Tittle.

Lance Alworth of San Diego grabbed the receiving lead with five catches against Boston for a total of 57, four more than Denver's Al Denson.

Rookies Bill Thompson of Denver and Carl Garrett of Boston top the punt and kickoff returners, respectively. Kansas City's Johnny Robinson and Emmitt Thomas share the interception lead with Oakland's Dave Grayson at eight apiece.

Nixon Won't Attend College Bowl Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon, who created a temporary college football team, probably will play it safe and not attend any of the bowl games.

This was the word of associates who accompanied the chief executive to New York Tuesday night to receive the National Football Foundation's Gold Medal Award for his contributions to the sport.

"The President probably will be impartial and stay at home, juggling the television dials," a friend said today. "He hasn't said positively yet, because he loves football so much."

"But while he was sitting on the dais, people kept coming by and asking him what bowl he was going to. A Penn State man asked if he would be at the Orange Bowl. He said, 'no.' Another asked about the Sugar Bowl and another the Cotton Bowl."

They got the same response. "If he happens to be on the West Coast at the time, he might take in the Rose Bowl, but this is very doubtful."

The President made reference to the No. 1 controversy in an off-the-cuff talk to more than 1,000 $100-a-plate guests at the annual awards dinner of the Foundation and Hall of Fame.

He said at one time, apparently after receiving protests from supporters of unbeaten Penn State, he had considered suggesting a college Super Bowl after the Jan. 1 games to determine a true national champion.

"I figured I was in deep enough trouble already, so I dropped it," he added.

The Associated Press decided to hold its poll determining the national champion after New Year's Day games sending Texas against Notre Dame, Penn State against Missouri, Arkansas against Mississippi and Southern California against Michigan.

The President flew in especially for the award and appeared to relish the 3½ hours of fraternization with the great and near great of the game. He was greeted by lines of anti-war demonstrators who marched outside the midtown hotel.

"I thought Texas deserved to be No. 1, not because of that second touchdown—a great gamble," Nixon said, "but because, after the first touchdown, it went for the two-point conversion."

"This took courage. In the 100th year of football and nearly the 200th year of our nation's anniversary, Texas played to win and set an example for all of us."

Receiving the MacArthur Bowl as the Foundation's No. 1 team, Coach Darrell Royal of Texas turned to the President and said:

"Mr. President, we'll try like hell to make you look good."

County Schools Have Full Slate

The Pickaway County high schools have a full slate this weekend.

Teays Valley hosts Franklin Heights Friday and is at Grove City on Saturday.

Westfall travels to East Clinton Friday and to Hamilton Twp. Saturday.

Logan Elm is idle Friday. On Saturday they host Southeastern.

The Teays Valley-Franklin Heights contest is the only league game.

Both members of the Metropolitan League, the Vikings need a win to stay in contention for the conference title. Bob Hoover's quintet is 1-1 in the league and has a 5-1 overall mark.

The Saturday game with Grove City's Greyhounds promises to be no breather for the Vikings. Coached by the canny Herb Russell, Grove City is one of the powers in the Mid Eight League this year.

Doug Sanders Below Top 60 On Golf Tour

MIAMI (AP) — Doug Sanders may have to drag himself out of bed, pull on those dapper clothes and battle a brigade of hungry kids for tournament berths on the 1970 pro golf tour.

Hardened veterans like Sanders and fuzzy chinned kids alike dread those Monday qualifiers. Usually it's 220 golfers firing 18 holes for 10 or 12 tournament spots.

Sanders, the graying winner of $549,086 as a pro, lost his automatic exemption by failing to make the top 60 money winners on the recently completed 1969 trek of the Professional Golfers Association.

The slim Georgian's $27,000 earnings dropped him well below the $28,100 of Steve Spray, who slipped by as No. 60 man among those who can sleep late on Mondays.

"It's not as bad as it seems," Sanders said. "I'll admit I don't enjoy the situation. It's a matter of pride."

Dapper Doug can enter 12 tour events where he has been a champion and has a lifetime exemption. Three other times he will be eligible for special sponsor invitations.

"I also finished in the top 25 in about a dozen tournaments," he said. "So I'm all set for those. And, as long as I make the 36-hole cutdowns I will be an automatic entry for the next event along the road."

Despite all those loopholes, Sanders wasn't happy about being among the worriers.

But he has company in being a nonexempt player. Veterans Billy Maxwell, Tommy Jacobs, Jack Cupit, Mason Rudolph and Al Balding were among those who missed the top 60. So did youngsters Ron Cerrudo, Lou Graham, Bobby Cole, Bob Dickson and Mike Hill.

Ohio Teams In Clashes On Hardwood

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"We had to take the ball game to them on the boards," said Dayton basketball Coach Don Donohoe in explaining how his Flyers upset 11th-ranked Louisville, 72-56, Tuesday night.

"We thought there was no way we could run them out of their own park, but we did!" declared the exuberant coach.

The loss snapped a 25-game home-court winning streak for the Cardinals.

In other college basketball games involving Ohio teams Tuesday night, Kenyon outscored Wooster 118-112, Marietta socked Muskingum 97-67, John Carroll edged Western Reserve 70-67 and Oberlin beat Case 65-47.

Kenyon's little John Rinka snapped two Ohio Conference records with 27 field goals and 69 total points in the high-scoring contest with Wooster. Rinka twice had scored 55 points for the old league mark. The previous field goal record was 22.

Tom Brewer had 28 points and Dave Leatherman 19 to lead Marietta to its second Ohio Conference win against no loss.

Tiger Grapplers Win First Meet By 26-23 Margin

Circleville High School opened their 1969-70 wrestling season with a win over Columbus Central 26-23 at the Tigers gym.

"I was very well pleased with our strong showing," Coach Brent Bell stated "and especially pleased with the showing of Jeff Harr, Mark Ebert, Doug Good, Craig Dresbach, John Myers and Bill Fowler."

"We are a long way from district champions," Coach Bell offered, "but if they keep improving as rapidly as they have so far, they could develop into a real power in the central district."

Lynch of Central won by forfeit in the new 98-pound division as Circleville doesn't have a man in that division.

In the 107-pound class sophomore Jeff Harr of Circleville decisively won of Central 4-0.

Central's Levitt, one of the best in the district, pinned Circleville's junior Mike Fuller in the third period in the 115-pound division.

In the 123-pound class the Tigers Mark Ebert pinned Byers of Central in the third period.

Junior Doug Good of Circleville won a decisive decision over Floyd of Central 12-0 in the 130-pound division. Good had several close wins in the match.

Junior Doyle Kiser of the Tigers and Stewart of Central wrestled to a draw in the 137-pound class with one point each.

In the 145-pound class Craig Dresbach of the Tigers won an impressive decision over Central's Torrence 6-0.

Duquesne, Louisville Cage Losers

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Duquesne traveled hundreds of miles to get upset . . . but Louisville never had to leave home.

Seventh-ranked Duquesne and 11th-ranked Louisville were among college basketball victims on Terrible Tuesday. Nebraska, hosting Duquesne at Lincoln, whacked the Dukes 82-

77 and Dayton decked Louisville 72-56 in the Cardinals' nest.

The beatings of the ranked teams Tuesday night continued an upset trend since the season's opening gun last week.

South Carolina, the nation's No. 1-ranked team in pre-season polls was among the more noticeable victims—losing to Tennessee 55-54 last Saturday night. Purdue, Marquette, Colorado and St. John's of New York have been other top-ranked victims.

The unranked Cornhuskers, winning their first four games since 1919, used a strong defense and 26 points from the free throw line to undermine Duquesne.

Marvin Stewart scored 18 points for Nebraska and LeRoy Chalk added 17. Duquesne lost high scorer Mickey Davis, who had 17 points, and Barry Nelson, on fouls.

Dayton took charge of the tempo of the game, forcing Louisville to play slowed-down basketball, as the Flyers nailed the Cardinals.

Dayton trailed 29-28 at the half, but behind the rebounding of Ken May and George Janky, the Flyers pulled ahead early in the second half with their stall-ball tactics.

Dayton took the lead for good at 36-35 on a 12-foot jump shot by guard Jerry Gottschall with about 17 minutes left in the game.

Ranked teams followed form in the night's other contests as ninth-ranked Tennessee defeated Centenary 66-62, 14th-ranked Purdue smothered Butler 100-64 and 18th-ranked Jacksonville annihilated Mercer 100-64.

Deadly Don Johnson fired in 26 points, all from long range, as the Volunteers outdueled Centenary. Tennessee sprinted to an early 28-17 lead and appeared to be enroute to an easy victory when the scrappy visitors fought back to within 33-31 at the half. Then Johnson's second half baskets helped close the door on Centenary.

Purdue whipped Butler despite the loss of Rick Mount. The high-scoring star left the game with about seven minutes remaining in the first half with a bruised knee after scoring 12 points.

Seven-foot Artis Gilmore scored 34 points to lead Jacksonville over Mercer. Mercer led the first ten minutes, but Jacksonville moved ahead 25-24 nine minutes before the half and went on to dominate the game.

Louisiana State, behind Pistol Pete Maravich's 43 points, bombed Loyola of New Orleans 100-87.

Washington And Washington Clash In Vikings-49ers Tilt

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — It will be Gene Washington vs. Gene Washington in Sunday's Minnesota Vikings-San Francisco 49ers National Football League game.

The Vikings are worried about stopping Washington. The 49ers are worried about Washington.

Washington catches passes for both clubs. He leads both teams in pass receiving. He was a first round draft choice for both teams.

The 49er press books says of Washington, "Speed and great hands." Minnesota's guide says, "excellent speed and good hands."

Yes, there are two Gene Washingtons and they will be wearing different uniforms in the 1 p.m. (CST) game at Metropolitan Stadium. Since both play offense, it's likely that the only time they will be on the field at the same time is during pregame warmups.

Minnesota's Gene Washington, drafted out of Michigan State in 1967, stands 6-foot-3 and weighs 208 pounds.

San Francisco's Gene Washington, a rookie from Stanford, is 6-1, 185 pounds.

The Minnesota Washington has caught 38 passes for 769 yards and eight touchdowns. The San Francisco Washington brings a reception record to the Met of 47 catches for 641 yards and three touchdowns.

There is one big difference. Minnesota's Washington plays for an 11-1 team. The 49er's Gene is with a 3-7 club.

The Viking will be wearing No. 84. The 49er's numberals are 18.

Now, you can tell them apart if it doesn't snow.

It's the second time this season that a Vikings' receiver will meet a namesake on an opposing team.

The Purple's John Henderson outperformed Pittsburgh's Jon Henderson in Minnesota's 52-14 triumph Nov. 23 by catching three more passes than the Steeler receiver.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "Golf is a business with me, not a game," says Frank Beard, whose business is good these days.

This week the Louisville professional was acclaimed the year's top Professional Golfers Association money winner with purse totaling $175,223.

SOUTHEASTERN is down compared to other years, but they have an exceptionally young team according to LE coach Chuck Pritchard.

"They're an all sophomore-junior team and have been hurting because of a lack of experience," Pritchard said. But he added that SE Coach Dave Augspurger has some exceptional athletes on the squad and they will improve.

"They have good shooters and show a lot of scrap. They are capable of beating anybody," Pritchard noted.

The annual Army-Navy football game will be played in Philadelphia on Saturday, Nov. 29.

Raiders Place 7 On AFL All-Star Team

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland's explosive Raiders placed seven players, including sharpshooting quarterback Daryle Lamonica, on the American Football League All-Star team selected today by The Associated Press.

Lamonica, who goes into Saturday's Western Division showdown against Kansas City with a chance to shatter the pro season record for touchdown passes, led a five-man Oakland contingent named to the All-AFL offensive unit. Two more Raiders were solid defensive choices on the 22-man squad. Kansas City took five positions and New York's defending league champs four in the ballot of 30 sports writers and sportscasters—three from each AFL city.

Lamonica captured the quarterback spot with a 2-to-1 margin over New York's Joe Namath, last season's AFL player of the year.

Center Jim Otto, making the squad for the ninth time in 10 pro seasons, guard Gene Upshaw, tackle Harry Schuh and wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff were the other Oakland offensive selections. Cornerback Willie Brown and safety Dave Grayson represent the Raiders on the defensive unit.

Kansas City had two of the top three vote-getters, offensive tackle Jim Tyrer leading the way with 27 and outside linebacker Bobby Bell matching Brown's 24 for high in the defensive balloting. Guard Ed Budde, defensive tackle Buck Buchanan and safety Johnny Robinson were the other Chiefs selected.

Matt Snell of New York and Floyd Little of Denver were clear-cut choices as running backs. Slender Don Maynard of the Jets beat out San Diego's Lance Alworth, an all-league selection the past six seasons, for the other wide receiver spot and 6-foot-6 Bob Trumpy of Cincinnati took the tight end position. Denver's Rich Jackson and New York's Gerry Philbin are the defensive ends and Jet John Elliott joins Buchanan as the tackle tandem. Nick Bounie, traded from Boston to Miami last spring, is back in the middle linebacker spot after missing out last year for the first time in five seasons.

Houston's George Webster is the other outside linebacker and Buffalo's George "Butch" Byrd completes the defensive cast at cornerback.

Eleven of the select 22 are repeaters from last year's all-AFL squad — eight of them on defense. Five others were second team picks in 1968.

Kansas City's Tyrer, Bell and Robinson each was named for the fifth straight year, teammate Buchanan for the fourth.

Maynard, a 32-year-old veteran of 12 pro seasons, is the oldest player on the squad and Upshaw, 23, the youngest. All the first team picks have been in the league at least three seasons except Trumpy, a second-year man with Cincinnati's 1968 expansion club.

The Western clubs landed 15 first-team spots to seven for the East. San Diego West and Boston East were shut out.

Tudor Queen Named Top 2-Year-Old

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — John H. Stafford's Tudor Queen, who beat everything she faced in Canada and then won the Frizette Stakes in New York, was named today the best 2-year-old filly to race in the United States this year by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations.

After winning four stakes in Canada, the Kentucky-bred purchased for $11,000 as a yearling, won the Frizette and $100,525 at Belmont Park. She then lost her final race of the year.

Tudor Queen received 22 of 55 votes and barely edged out Har-Bar Ranch's Fast Attack, winner of the Gardena.

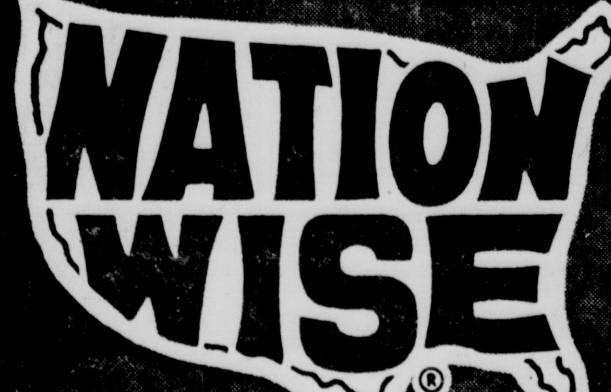

John McLendon Ousted By Rockets

DENVER (AP) — John McLendon, professional basketball's only Negro head coach, is out of his job today.

The Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association announced McLendon's firing Tuesday and said he would be replaced by Joe Belmont, the club's marketing director, as acting coach.

"I have the greatest respect for John McLendon," said Rocket General Manager Don Ringsby. "My biggest regret is that I induced him to leave a successful and happy situation at Cleveland State University this past spring."

Raiders Place 7 On AFL All-Star Team

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland's explosive Raiders placed seven players, including sharp-shooting quarterback Daryle Lamonica, on the American Football League All-Star team selected today by The Associated Press.

Lamonica, who goes into Saturday's Western Division showdown against Kansas City with a chance to shatter the pro season record for touchdown passes, led a five-man Oakland contingent named to the All-AFL offensive unit. Two more Raiders were solid defensive choices on the 22-man squad. Kansas City took five positions and New York's defending league champs four in the ballot of 30 sports writers and sportscasters—three from each AFL city.

Lamonica captured the quarterback spot with a 2-to-1 margin over New York's Joe Namath, last season's AFL player of the year.

Center Jim Otto, making the squad for the ninth time in 10 pro seasons, guard Gene Upshaw, tackle Harry Schuh and wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff were the other Oakland offensive selections. Cornerback Willie Brown and safety Dave Grayson represent the Raiders on the defensive unit.

Kansas City had two of the top three vote-getters, offensive tackle Jim Tyrer leading the way with 27 and outside linebacker Bobby Bell matching Brown's 24 for high in the defensive balloting. Guard Ed Budde, defensive tackle Buck Buchanan and safety Johnny Robinson were the other Chiefs selected.

Cleveland Seeks Rail Headquarters

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and a delegation of seven Cleveland businessmen flew to Roanoke Monday to discuss relocation of the merged Norfolk & Western-Chesapeake & Ohio headquarters to Cleveland.

"You've attacked this problem a little early," said N&W President Herman Pevler. "This subject is not on the top burner now."

Rhodes, who said he came to "sell Cleveland," told Pevler, "you have good management. We don't go out and ask every humpty - humpty to move to Cleveland."

5 Members Of Cincy Reds Undefeated In Cage Action

CINCINNATI (AP) — Five Cincinnati Reds, adding a dimension to the Hot Stove League, are burning up area basketball courts and may oppose some other major leaguers this winter.

Undefeated in eight games against high school faculties, the team is believed to be the only group of baseball players sponsored by its major league team. It is called the Cincinnati Reds.

"I don't think that people realize that some of these guys (baseball players) can play a little basketball too," said Jim Maloney, the baseball pitcher who is the basketball center. "But we're not the pro-type that people marvel at. The main reason we're playing is to raise a little money for schools here."

John Bench said that "We're going to try to work up something with the Cubs" but Chicago Manager Leo Durocher "has to okay it. We have also contacted Baltimore and might be going to play interleague."

Pete Rose, Gerry Arrigo and Jimmy Stewart round out the Reds players on the team. Dick Vories, a personnel director, and teacher Skip Weber also compete.

Rose said that "We would sure like to play such teams but we need the right promotion to do something like that."

The prime hustler on the court as well as the playing field, Rose said that when the Reds arrange to play a game, "We tell the schools we're going to try and win, we're going to try to develop a winning streak."

"We work the ball pretty well and have pretty good speed," he continued.

He said he convinced General Manager Robert Hovsatt that playing would help promote publicity for the baseball club and Hovsatt agreed, although at first he did not want them to play.

"In my 10 years of baseball most teams frowned on playing basketball," Maloney said, echoing the views of most clubs over a fear that players could be injured. "now they seem to think that we can get hurt as easily on a freeway."

The Royals tried the 47:44 figure a week ago last Friday and the amazing Knicks scored six points in the final 16 seconds for a one point victory that gave them the National Basketball Association record of 18 triumphs in a row.

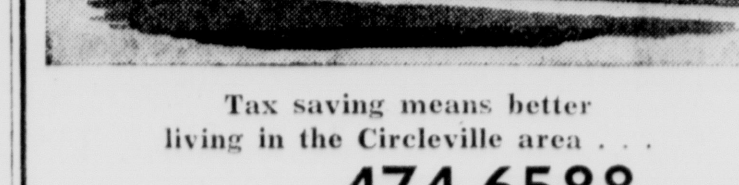

Tuesday night, the Royals tried again, this time for 48 minutes—barely—and stunned the Knicks 103-101 at Madison Square Garden for their first victory in four tries against the Knicks this season. It was only the third defeat in 29 games for New York.

"This is as good as we can play," said a happy Bob Cousy, the Royals' coach, "and that's what it takes to beat the Knicks."

Elsewhere in the NBA: Philadelphia crushed Los Angeles 123-99, Chicago tripped Phoenix 109-102, Atlanta edged San Francisco 117-115 and Seattle turned back Detroit 109-104.

In the only American Basketball Association contest, Carolina stopped Dallas 122-117.

Oscar Robertson led the Royals with 31 points while Bill had 23 for the Knicks.

Tax saving means better living in the Circleville area . . . call: 474-6588

Why Circleville?
Because there is an outstanding location in the Circleville area that offers today's home buyer everything in better living. It's Logan Elm!

In Logan Elm, there are no exceptionally high property taxes. . . no city income taxes and many of the other assessments that go with metropolitan city living.

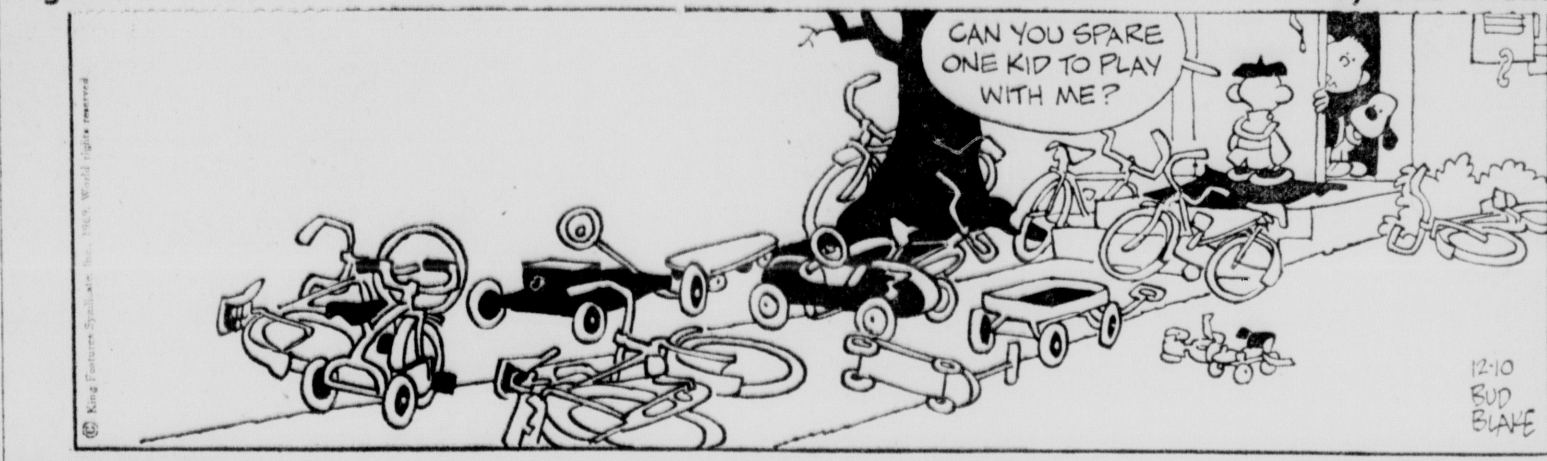

What do you get at Logan Elm? You get underground electric and telephone distribution system . . . a new concept in street lighting . . . sidewalks, curbs, gutters on every street . . . sanitary and storm sewers throughout . . . electric heat . . . soft water convenience.

Five years ago, Italian communists rioted in Rome in protest against a visit to Italy by Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo.

One year ago, the Soviet Union disclosed that its military spending was at an all-time high.

Cleveland Seeks Rail Headquarters

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and a delegation of seven Cleveland businessmen flew to Roanoke Monday to discuss relocation of the merged Norfolk & Western-Chesapeake & Ohio headquarters to Cleveland.
"You've attacked this problem a little early," said N&W President Herman Pevler. "This subject is not on the top burner now."
Rhodes, who said he came to "sell Cleveland," told Pevler, "you have good management. We don't go out and ask every humpty - humpty to move to Cleveland."

5 Members Of Cincy Reds Undefeated In Cage Action

CINCINNATI (AP) — Five Cincinnati Reds, adding a dimension to the Hot Stove League, are burning up area basketball courts and may oppose some other major leaguers this winter.

Undefeated in eight games against high school faculties, the team is believed to be the only group of baseball players sponsored by its major league team. It is called the Cincinnati Reds.

"I don't think that people realize that some of these guys (baseball players) can play a little basketball too," said Jim Maloney, the baseball pitcher who is the basketball center.

"But we're not the pro-type that people marvel at. The main reason we're playing is to raise a little money for schools here," John Bench said that "We're going to try to work up something with the Cubs" but Chicago Manager Leo Durocher "has to okay it. We have also contacted Baltimore and might be going to play interleague."

Pete Rose, Gerry Arriago and Jimmy Stewart round out the Reds players on the team. Dick Vories, a personnel director, and teacher Skip Weber also compete.

Rose said that "We would sure like to play such teams but we need the right promotion to do something like that."

The prime hustler on the court as well as the playing field, Rose said that when the Reds arrange to play a game, "We tell the schools we're going to try and win, we're going to try to develop a winning streak."

"We work the ball pretty well and have pretty good speed," he continued.

He said he convinced General Manager Robert Howsam that playing would help promote publicity for the baseball club and Howsam agreed, although at first he did not want them to play.

"In my 10 years of baseball most teams frowned on playing basketball," Maloney said, echoing the views of most clubs over a fear that players could be injured. "now they seem to think that we can get hurt as easily on a freeway."

By MIKE RECHT
NEW YORK (AP) The Cincinnati Royals finally discovered what it takes to beat the New York Knicks: 48 minutes of their best basketball. Not 47 minutes and 44 seconds.

The Royals tried the 47:44 figure a week ago last Friday and the amazing Knicks scored six points in the final 16 seconds for a one point victory that gave them the National Basketball Association record of 18 triumphs in a row.

Tuesday night, the Royals tried again, this time for 48 minutes—barely—and stunned the Knicks 103-101 at Madison Square Garden for their first victory in four tries against the Knicks this season. It was only the third defeat in 29 games for New York.

In the only American Basketball Association contest, Carolina stopped Dallas 122-117.

Oscar Robertson led the Royals with 31 points while Bill had 23 for the Knicks.
